Crowd Likes Fireworks and Clawson

Homecoming festivities went off well despite violence that occurred earlier in the week. The crowd was treated to performances by the Patriettes, Majorettes, Marching Band, and the Boogie-Woogie Booster Band. An added attraction this year was a fireworks display at the west end of the field. The Freshman class float won the class contest this year; it was the first time in five years that the seniors were upset. The Choir float won the over-all award.

Carol Clawson was elected Homecoming Queen. Members of her court were Stacy Crowe, Denise England, Crystal Lee and Gail Tremain.

Violence Disrupts Marshall

October 2—Cap, Sock, and Jersey day. That was the plan. Students and teachers were a laughing kaleidoscope of reds, blues, and yellows for two periods.

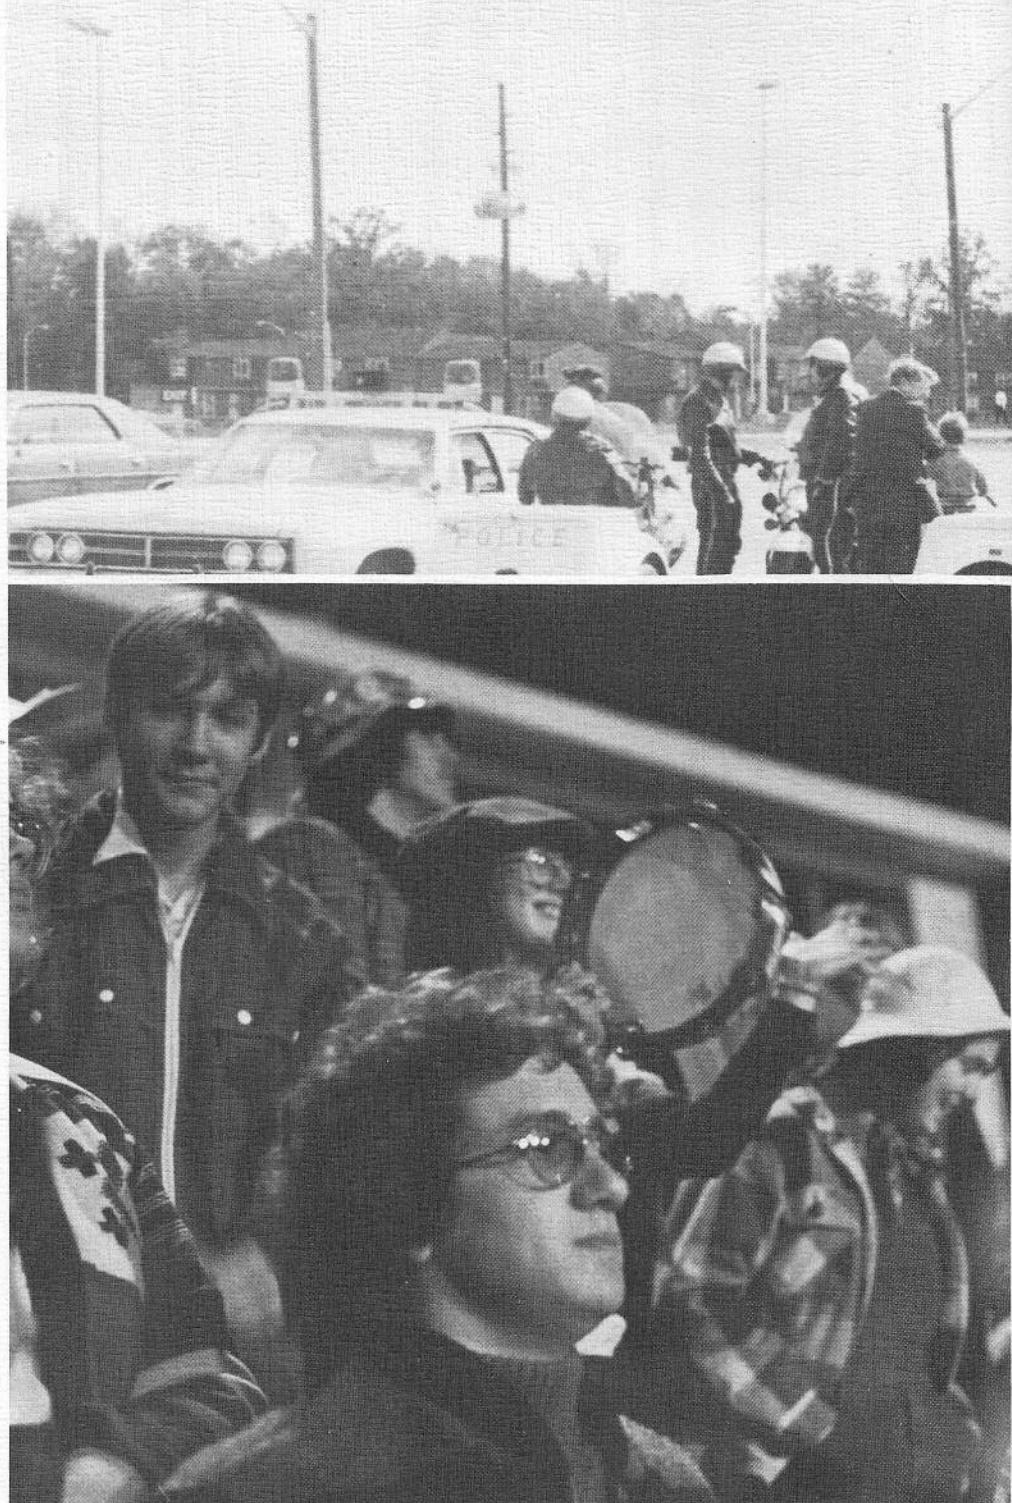

It was a cold day for a pep session outside. Not all the students were ecstatic about trekking to Sullivan Field.

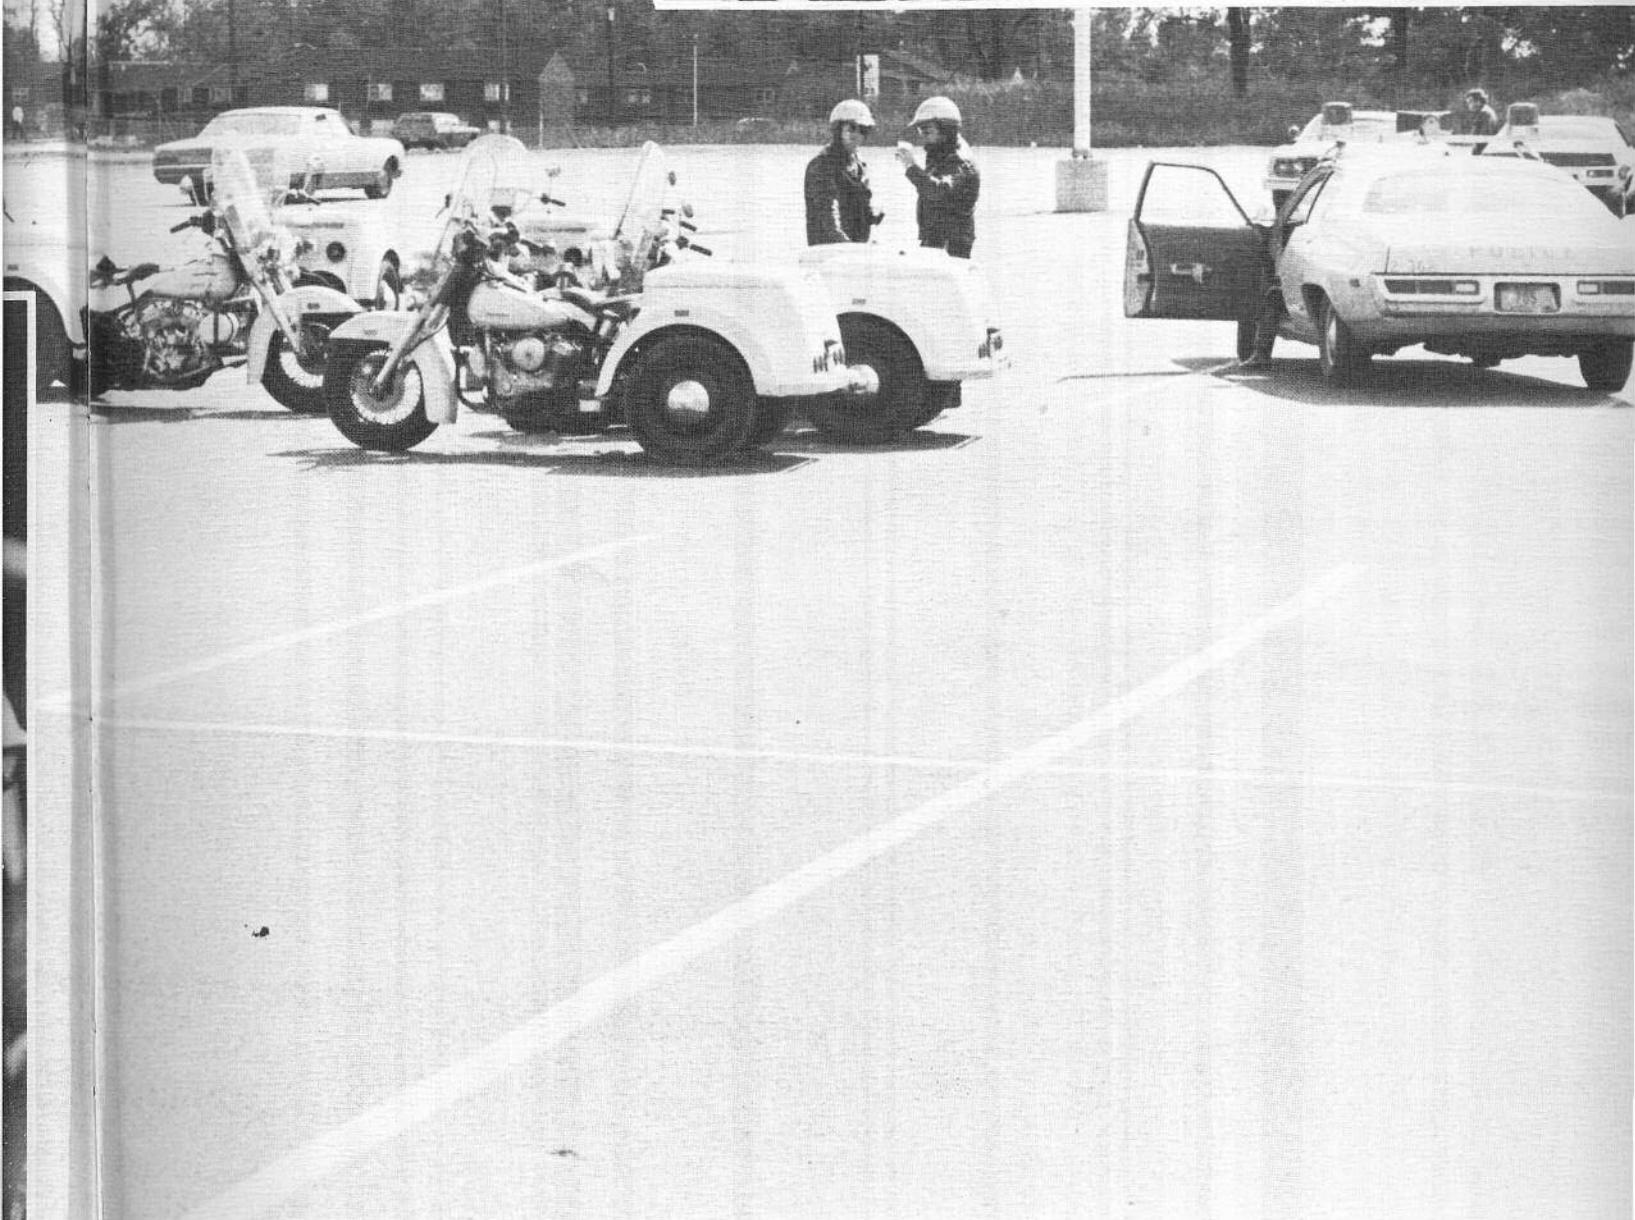

The pep session went well; however, after the pep session, fighting broke out at the east end of the school grounds as students were filing back to enter school. The fights continued into the main corridor, and a security guard sprayed mace to disperse the crowd. A public address message ordered students to their classes and warned that any students caught loitering in the halls would be arrested.

During fourth period, fighting broke out again in the cafeteria. Food, dishes and chairs filled the air. The lunch students were dismissed, but not instructed where to go. Ambulances, police and parents who had heard radio and television announcements came to the school. Buses were called in to take students home and school was dismissed.

At the conclusion of the day there were twelve arrests and twenty-two reported injuries. Seventy police officers had been sent to Marshall as well as the canine corps and a helicopter.

Only seven hundred and eighty students reported to their first hour classes the next day and attendance dropped as the day went on. It was feared that the trouble would reduce attendance at the homecoming game but it didn't. A large crowd enjoyed the game despite the 45-8 loss to Greenfield Central.

Moments in Marshall History

What other high school in Indianapolis has a field trip to Florida's Okefenokee Swamp? And baseball is a top sport even with the exciting Reds' play in the Series. The Pats made it to state runner-up for the second consecutive year. The seniors—they continue to boost the scholarship total. This year they earned more than a quarter of a million dollars in scholarships. As far as numbers go, Marshall's film production, the publications and the evening school are among the largest in the city.

Although this is only our ninth year, we've changed in both physical structure and curriculum. Our vocational addition which was completed last year is one of the finest. The curriculum is subject to constant revision to meet the changing needs of the students and the community.

Going through the North Central evaluation this year, teachers and students soon learned that departments had made many improvements since the last evaluation seven years ago by the accrediting agency. Among the changes is the reorganization of the PTO into the PATS (Parents, Administrators, Teachers, Students) to help broaden relations between the school and the community.

Concerns

Economics

"I can hardly afford to drive my car anymore, gasoline prices are so high." Every student at Marshall felt the pinch of inflation. Gasoline and food prices soared out of sight.

The Department of Commerce reported that the cost of living increased by five tenths of a percent in September of 1975. This represented an annual increase of six percent. Food prices jumped a startling 17 percent while gasoline prices climbed even faster at four and three tenths percent or an average of two and four tenths cents per gallon. The costs of fuel oil, used cars, and medical services also increased at a rapid double digit annual rate.

While prices soared, employment for the students became more and more difficult to find. Students who were unemployed had to search harder than ever to find a job, many times with no luck at all. Most of the students lucky enough to find jobs found themselves working at fast-service restaurants, gas stations and groceries for about $2.10 per hour, which hardly seemed to compete with prices.

Many students who could not find jobs and who had no immediate college plans or no money for schooling joined the armed services. Military housing, clothing, job training and travel spelled security to many students.

Singers, Players, Comedians

Vaudeville was the theme of this year's Patriots on Parade, the annual all-school talent show. "More than 60 acts tried out this year," said Janet Eberle. "We accepted 33." Eberle sponsored the show along with Cynthia Featheringill and Paul Justice.

"It was the largest variety of acts we've ever had," said Featheringill. "We had instrumentalists, solo singers, ensemble groups, and comedy acts."

Journalism

Confusion

And Laughs

Have you ever really taken a good look at the Marhiscan? Well, if you have, you will notice that there are eight additional pages, and the opening section is in color.

The Marhiscan is unique. The format is altogether different; there is a club directory, a team directory, and an editorial section.

One probably thinks that working on the yearbook staff is all fun and games, but Mark Wright, editor of the Marhiscan, says, "Usually, it is pretty fun, but when there is a deadline to make, there's always a lot of confusion. We also have trouble not having enough typewriters." There are approximately 40 students on staff trying to make their deadlines, so one can see why it would be confusing at times.

Do you ever wonder why the school publishes a yearbook and names it the Marshican? The Marhiscan stands for Marshall High School Annual. Wright hopes that the Marhiscan gives everybody everlasting memories of their last school year.

The editors of the bi-weekly school newspaper, the Liberator, tried a new layout idea this year. There was also a change in style. The use of Mr. and Ms. was dropped. Instead, only the names were used. More pictures were planned, too. Co-editors of the paper for '75-'76 were Julie Phillips and Janet Wilson.

New among Marshall publications this year was the Addition, a school-oriented news magazine. The editor was Jim Clements. Members of the Liberator staff contributed stories to the Addition.

Projects:

Fireworks,

Petition

One of the first Student Council-sponsored activities this year was the Young America Showcase auditorium with Free Fair, as well as an evening program attended by 800 persons. Other projects were: fireworks at the Homecoming game, and a cider and donut sale at one of the games. Also planned was a petition for extra Metro transit here, with a regular line running at convenient times.

Student Council representatives, with a grade-point average of at least 4.0, are elected each semester.

This marked the end of the two year old steering committee, which had not worked as well as expected. Instead, the cabinet of officers met weekly and the council itself met bi-weekly.

Donald Austin, co-sponsor of the council, commented at the beginning of school, "We have a fine cabinet of officers, and it looks like we'll have an extremely fine council this year."

Journalist Achievers Are Honored

Those sassafras, blueberry, black cherry or orange candy sticks you may have bought first semester were sold as fund-raising projects by the National Honor Society. The group also collected cans for the Key Club's canned food drive. Before each student became a member he or she was rated by teachers in the areas of leadership, character and service. A high grade point average also had to be maintained.

Inductions were held each semester for publications students who had been on staff one year and had done work above and beyond the ordinary. They became members of Quill and Scroll, an honorary society. This year after induction, members attended a Racer game.

Some of you saw Jon Buttram, Pat Milligan, JoAnn Shanks and Kevin Strunk participate in WTHR's "Exercise in Knowledge" program as representatives of our Quiz Team. Bill Street served as alternate. The team was defeated by Howe in the first round of the elimination tournament.

German Club Sell, Tour and Dine

The three foreign language clubs have been a success. They include the French Club, sponsored by Ruth Nelson and Elizabeth Thompson, the German Club sponsored by Brice Tressler and the Spanish Club sponsored by William Jefferson.

The Spanish Club planned a trip to Mexico spring vacation. They sold candy and other items to defray the cost. They're also studying foods, clothing and the dialect of the Mexican people.

The German Club enjoyed a very successful year. The club was very active and participated in many activities.

Among the events the club became involved in was a Muhle Tournament and the State Conventions. They also enjoyed a trip to Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

During the bi-weekly meetings, the French Club members liked learning folk dances of French origin and the art of making crepes (French pancakes). An excursion to the Art Museum was planned by the club; there the members observed famous paintings. The club is always interested in gaining new members who will participate and help the club to grow. The officers wish to extend an open invitation to all those who are interested in French to join the club for the school year beginning this fall.

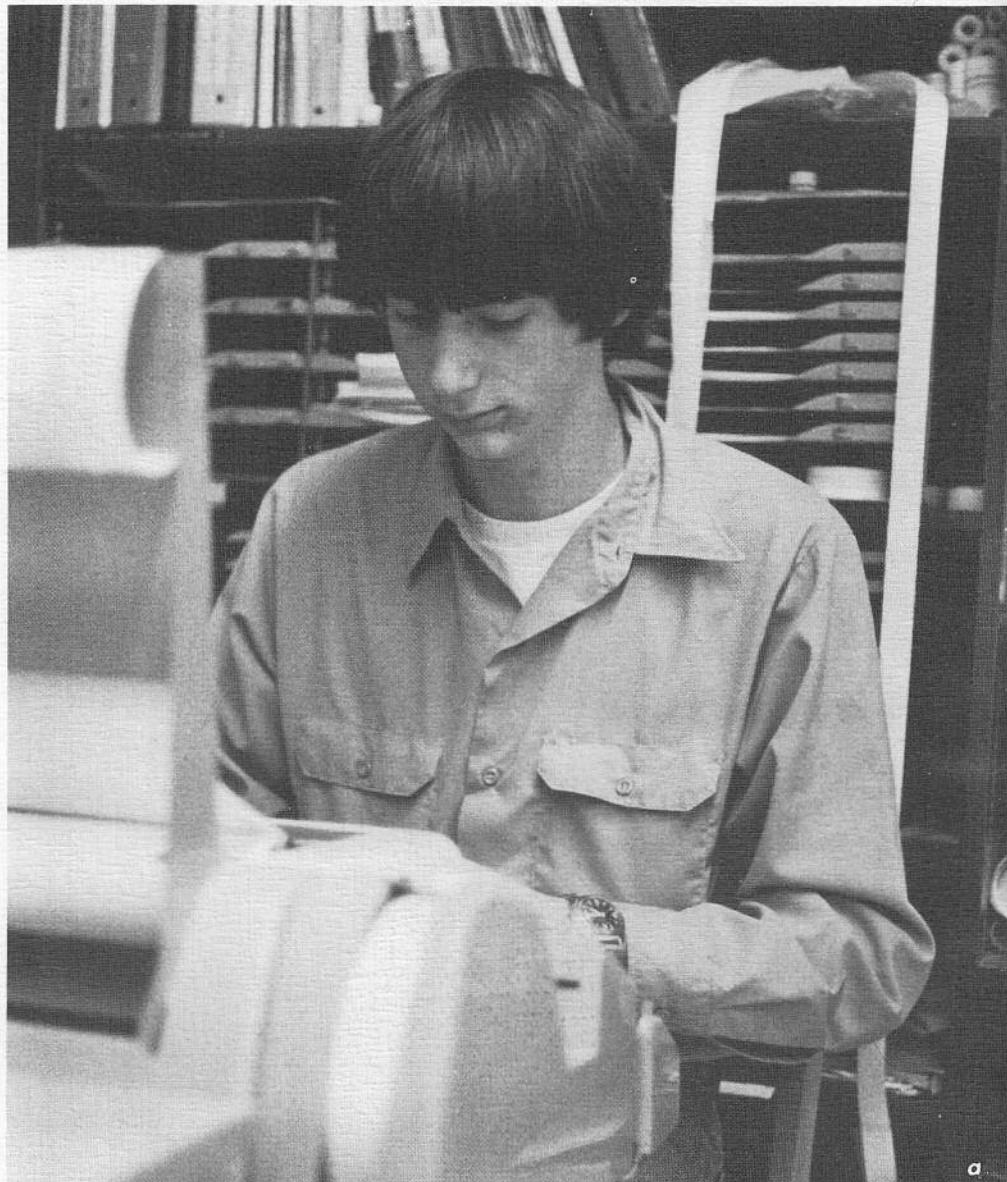

a. Cristina Colon is making a verbal contribution at a National Honor Society meeting. b. Mark Wright and Terry Rowe, two Quill and Scroll members, help produce the yearbook. c. Quiz Team members answer questions of various subjects. d. The French Club plays Monopoly the French way. e. Use of textbooks enhances these Spanish Club members grammar skills. f. Jo Ann Shanks is looking forward to sampling pastries from this German bakery.

Program Yourself To Learn

A Benjamin Franklin kite-flying contest or carnival was planned by the History Club to raise money. After they accumulated the amount needed, their goal was to go on a spring trip. The sponsor is John Allen and the president was Dana Arthur.

If you never joined the Computer Math Club because you thought you needed more math, relax. If you were good in General Math, you could learn to do quite a bit with the computer which is located in the Math Office. Of course, the more math knowledge you possess, the more commands you can learn, the easier it is to operate the computer. Experienced students used the computer as an aid in doing their homework. Naturally, an interest in learning to use the computer was a necessity.

IMC Students Work Behind The Scenes

The English Department enabled the start of the new Speech Club. It consists of the Speech Team, who give speeches at the club meetings, and the other members are their audience. This club is open to all students. It is sponsored by Linda Breyer, one of our English teachers. Students in the Speech Club volunteered to participate in contests at various schools. Some of their choices were poetry, radio, girls extemp or impromtu speeches.

Advanced Library Experienced students were trained by Virginia McDonald, the director of the IMC, to maintain an efficient Instructional Materials Center. Shelving books and keeping the library in order are fundamental. Students also man the check-out desk, work in the magazine and listening and viewing rooms and deliver study hall sign-in sheets. They work behind the scenes repairing and processing materials.

a. Pat Murphy attempts to master the computer. The club meets in the Math office. Members learn some commands and how to operate the "electronic brain". Teachers use the computer, too. b. Dana Arthur, president of the History Club, leads an open discussion with the other members. Pat Milligan gives his suggestions for their next project. c. Many students find the Periodicals section of the library to be a nice place to sit and browse. Magazines and newspapers may be checked out at the magazine room window. d. Two Speech Club members, Carolyn Fair and Debbie Slicer, check their speech to make sure it says the right thing, is well organized, convincing and interesting. The audience must also be considered when writing and presenting a speech.

Thespians: On Stage and Behind it

A student does not need to be an actor to be in Thespians. However, co-sponsors Jerry Hurst and Paul Justice, require each person to accumulate ten points. These points are equal to a number of experiences and can be gained by watching or by participating in productions that have something to do with the stage. Once these points have been earned, the club members decide whether or not the student will be initiated. Thespians is a national honorary society. Many of the club members participated in the school plays. Vice-president was Karen Bouchonnet and the president was Mike Wheeler. Mike said, "All of us in Thespians are students who have put in many hours on stage or around it, as the stage crew. During play time, everyone plays a very important part in making the play a success."

Just Us is

For You

And by You

A field trip to the company that publishes the SATURDAY EVENING POST was one valuable experience Just Us members had. They got new ideas for the organization of the magazine they put out. They also decided to print the magazine themselves again, using an electronic stencil-maker. The magazine contains material written by Marshall students and is sponsored by Nancy Williams.

The Deca Club consists for students in Distributive Education. Members learned how to succeed in business, and they could investigate different work areas. The club was designed to increase knowledge and qualities of leadership. Regional, state and national competitions were in various fields.

a. Thespian Kelli Kingsley gets an eyeful of make-up as she prepares for her appearance in the all-school play "George Washington Slept Here." b. They don't mind that George Washington slept there, but they hope their uncle won't! Rhett Coles, seated, plays the uncle, Karen Bouchonnet and Scott Lakin are the couple. This is a scene from the all-school play. c. Jacqueline Sandefur corrects the grammar on the story she just wrote for the Just Us book. d. Deca sponsor Dave Russell and members of the club discuss opportunities available to members. The club is for students in DE. Members improve their business sense.

It's WB9NPA

Amateurs

On the Air

Boys with a C average or above make up the Key Club. They try to help the community as much as possible. While playing in a jamboree against North Central, they were defeated, 14-12. The amount of money collected went to the Riley Childrens Hospital. The Key Club had can food drives to earn money for the needy people in the community. Around Christmas they enjoyed helping the Salvation Army ring the bell to raise money. The sponsors are Casimir Szynal and David Otto.

Students have the opportunity to learn the basics about working with all sorts of radios and transmitting messages in code through the Radio Club. This enables a student to earn a license to operate a ham radio. They have a radio station here called WB9NPA, sponsored by Paul Justice and Robert Carr. After going to the second meeting one is considered a member.

a. There's action on the line of scrimmage as Marshall faces North Central during the Key Club Jamboree. b. Working intently with parts is Scott Lutocka of the Radio Club. As Mr. Justice gives instructions, Mike Wheeler listens and learns. c. Regularly on Saturdays, the Drill Team competed in meets. This year's new Drill Team Commander was Alan Cooper. Last summer, the team won a trophy at the State Fair. d. The Color Guard is responsible for raising and caring for the flag outside and at ball games and other events. No officers are allowed in the Guard. e. Ready! Aim! Fire! David Gray sets his sights on the target. In preparing to use his rifle, David wears a firing jacket, firing gloves, and ear phones. He takes a steady aim and then shoots.

Firing is Our Real Occupation

This school should be proud and aware of the fact that they have an award-winning Rifle Team. Leading the team for the second year as high firer was David Gray. As a team, the riflers have state trophies from '70 and '72. Although this rifle team didn't have a hand in winning them, they had a hand in continuing the tradition of Marshall being city champions. They also won the sectionals in the spring of '75. Graduating seniors in '76 were George Williams, first-year varsity; Dan Bonham, second-year varsity; and David Gray, third-year varsity.

The exhibition Drill Team competed in regular Saturday meets, and went to feeder and area schools of Marshall. The team adjusted well to the new Drill Team Commander who was Alan Cooper. Two other officers were Dennis Mitchell, Drill Team X.O., and Terry Lolla, Team Member. On August 14, the Drill Team went to the '75 State Fair and brought home a trophy. For the most part, they are young, but experienced and should be effective in competition.

Belles' Voices

Ring Out in Song

In Patriots on Parade, the Liberty Belles performed a song with a "women's lib" flavor. This, as well as their name, added to the bi-centennial spirit. The girls had to audition for the ensemble. They also appeared in Christmas programs and visited grade schools and nursing homes.

It wasn't necessary to have musical experience to become a Marshallaire; all you needed to do was audition. Of course, experience is quite helpful. Programs with a bi-centennial theme were presented by the group. Grade schools were visited and contests were entered.

Both groups participated in Feast and Follies.

Sons Visit Schools and Nursing Homes

If you were in Liberty Belles or Marshallaires, you were automatically in the Concert Choir. The choir participated in contests during the '75-'76 school year. The Choir Music Festival was held here at Marshall; all choirs in the city were involved.

The Girls Concert Club was between Freshman Chorus and the Concert Choir. However, you could often get into one without being in another first.

The Sons of Liberty performed in the Cavalcade of Music and Feast and Follies. They sang for community citizens, too.

a. Some of the Liberty Belles practice their performance from Patriots on Parade. The group presented a suffragette act that involved marching up the aisles to the stage while wearing period costumes and brandishing signs. b. The Marshallaires chose to wear brightly colored outfits for their shows. Besides performing for the community, they appeared in Patriots on Parade and the Christmas Program. These hats were worn in their POP act. c. The new name of the Boys' Octet is the Sons of Liberty. Sponsor Cynthia Featheringill accompanies members during a practice session. Any singing group needs a great deal of practice together to develop a good sound. d. The Concert Choir sang in the Choir Music Festival and also in other contests. Members of groups such as Marshallaires are Choir members automatically. e. These Girls' Concert Clubbers translate written music into a vocal form. Remember what your old music instructors used to say about using your diaphragm? Unlike some of us, these girls can use that information to produce good results.

Proudly March Our Patriots

We're all familiar with the Marching Band, but it did more than march at football games at the beginning of the year. Veterans' Day, our band performed in the Parade. Besides this, the students were part of the 500 Day Parade and, before that, they were in on the opening of Market Square Arena.

The '75-'76 Orchestra appeared in the Musical "1776". A festival, May 7 at the sports arena, was another outlet for the orchestra's talent. Some of the members participated in the All-City High School Symphony. Raymond Brandes directs the orchestra.

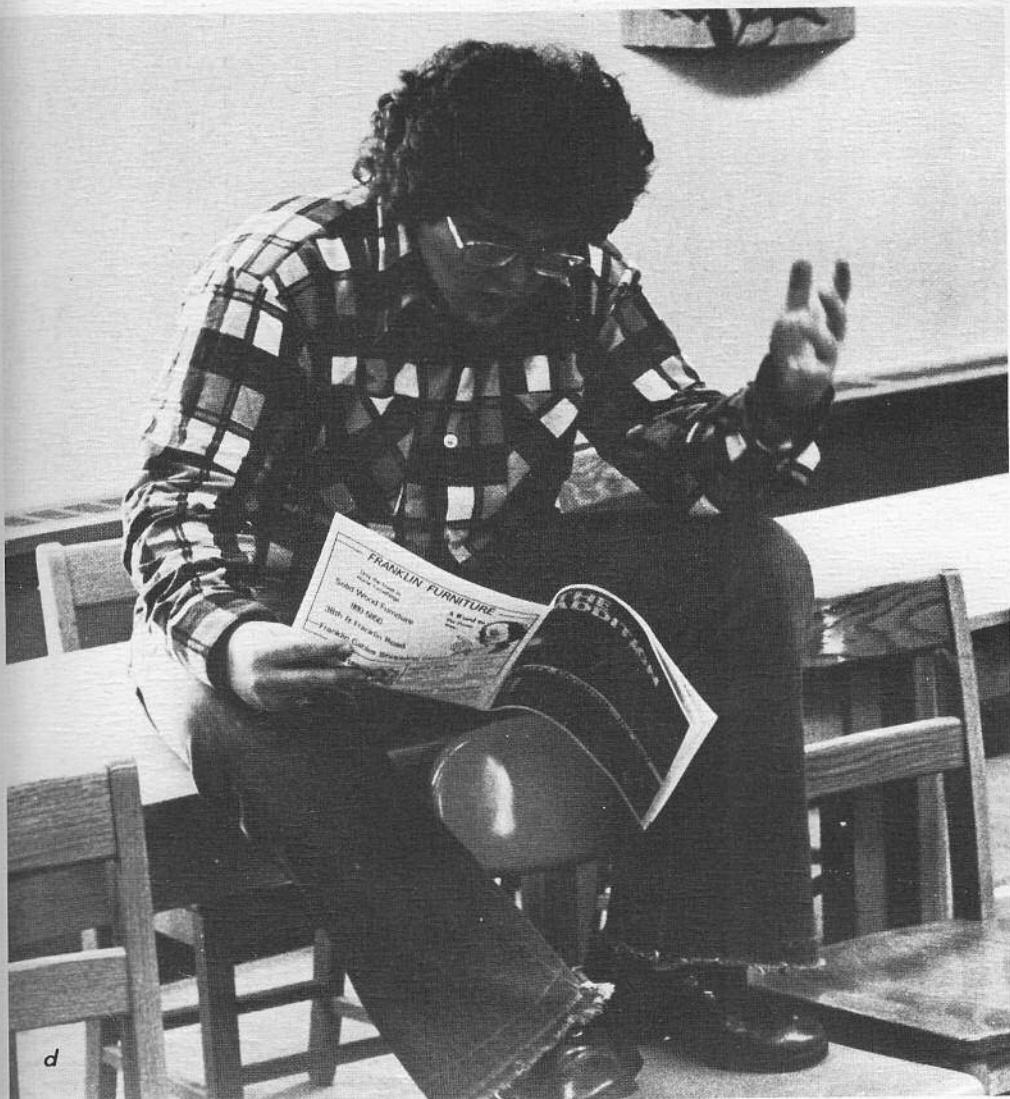

a. The violin is the focus of Lisa Browne's attention. Just drawing a bow haphazardly across strings does not pass for music. Knowledge, concentration and work go into the development of an orchestra member. b. Some of the more dedicated Marching Band members are Tom Hayden, Brenda Huggett and Rick Blackburn. Most of us first notice the Band on the field during football half-times, but the students also march other times at other places. c. Steve Snow and Dennis Waggoner, members of the Pep Band, keep up the beat as they play during one of the games. Even if you aren't a basketball fan, why not go just to listen to Steve, Dennis, and all other hardworking members. They're there to raise your spirits. d. Jim Clements, who is known for his cartooning, took on a different task as editor of the The Addition. Newspaper staff members contributed articles to the new magazine.

Controversy Explored in Magazine

A desire for a medium for longer feature stories led to the development of the new Addition magazine. With the greater length of the stories, controversial issues could be explored in greater depth. During the first semester, the magazine contained mostly features, but plans called for more short stories. Articles could come from any source; Liberator staffers contributed often. Editor Jim Clements was ably assisted by Ron Smith.

As usual, the Pep Band kept our spirits up during basketball games. Directed by Stephen Humphreys, the Pep Band played the weekly songs at half-time and at other times in the night encouraging the Marshall fans to cheer for our team.

Celebrate With Song And Dance

Thursdays were days either looked forward to or dreaded by members of Marshall's Chess Club and sponsor Jack Weaver. On those days they faced chess players from other schools. A match involves ten games; there are five varsity boards and five JV boards. Regular meetings were on Tuesdays.

Just recently organized was the Folk Dance Club. The important factor was that the dancers were eager to learn. It was a fresh, new experience for most of them. Even though they were beginners, they revealed their talent. Cindy Baker, the sponsor, demonstrated international dances for the club. They appeared before Market Square Arena crowds and other groups.

Naturalists Have Fun, Learn, Too

One of our most active clubs with the largest number of members is the Naturalists Club. It is so strong because of the fun and interesting activities that are done. During the Bicentennial Trip students could learn historical landmarks. Of course, they also learn about the outdoors. Treasurer Mark Weaver remarks, "Sponsor Robert (Doc) Weaver draws students with his humorous and interesting personality." Trips this year included one to Horicon Marsh, Wisconsin, an ecological burn, the annual Spring Mill Trip, and many others.

a. Mike Walton studies the situation. Chess is an activity that involves constant and complete concentration. To let your mind wander too far is to invite disaster—checkmate! b. Members of the Folk Dancing Club learn a new dance. The students need plenty of room to perform the dances which come from all over the world. c. Naturalists' Club members file by to pick up their food. This is one of the strongest clubs at Marshall, and the annual Thanksgiving trip is one reason why. d. Doc Weaver makes a few announcements. He is the popular sponsor of a popular club. The Naturalists helped the environment when they participated in an ecological burn. e. Students on the Naturalists' Club Spring Mill trip eat to their hearts' content. Chilly weather does not deter such voracious appetites.

Dancers Are Popular Performers

A performance group new this year was the German Volkstanz Gruppe, the polka dancers. These German students performed for the people of Indy during a Pacer game at Market Square Arena, at the Oktoberfest, Hospitality Motor Inn, Sherwood Country Club and an International Festival. The group members also exhibited their talents to Marshall students.

Another new performing group came out of the Foreign Language Department. Now, along with a Polka dancing group, we have an Alpine Band. The five individuals in the group played either a tuba, trombone, clarinet or one of two trumpets. The group, sponsored by Herr Tressler (Brice Tressler) usually performed at the same places as the dancers.

a. The Polka dancing group is new to Marshall. Cindy Baker helped members with dances while Brice Tressler handled the financial end. The group appeared at various places around Indianapolis, including Market Square Arena. b. The instrumentalists in the German Band, a new performing group, wore these outfits when they played. After listening to them for awhile, you're in the mood for sauerkraut und bratwurst. c. Z Club President Christina Martin was on hand for the Teen Toy Shop, an event in which the club annually participates. After applying her lung power to blowing up balloons, she sets up the station. d. These spelunkers are preparing for their entrance into the deep, dark recesses of a cave. Hard hats are optional, but knee pads are considered by most to be a necessity. Evidently bruised heads are preferable to bruised knees.

Spelunkers: Black and Blue Knees

The Z Club collected money for the annual Teen Toy Shop. The toys were purchased at Childrens Palace and taken to the Central State Hospital. As usual, the club ushered at school activities. Some members participated in new experiences, including cheerleading at the Key Club Jamboree and participating in the Key Club's breaking of the world's record for playing Monopoly on an elevator. Planned projects included taking orphans to the zoo.

Some people enjoyed themselves by wriggling through cave openings a size smaller than themselves, bruising their knees (unless they were wise enough to bring knee pads) and experiencing aching eyes upon the appearance of daylight. Spelunkers must have a touch of martyr in them. Meetings were held the first Wednesday of the month when plans were made for a cave trip. Jon Buttram presided over the group during the first semester. For the latter half of the year, Mark Hulett was president. The club also has a newsletter that is nationwide.

Second in State, Two Years in Row

History repeated itself for the Varsity Baseball Team by placing second in the state two years in a row. Knocking out team after team they went from city to state competition. Led by Joe Hicks, Rick Lynch and Tom Carder the Patriots ended their season with a 32-5 record.

Along with the graduating seniors we lost Clark Froning, head baseball coach and athletic director, who was one of the leading factors in the team's success in the past years. Coach Robert Tremain will take over as head coach starting in the 1976 season. A new coach for the 1976 season is Brad Goffinet who will take the place of Tremain as the J.V. coach.

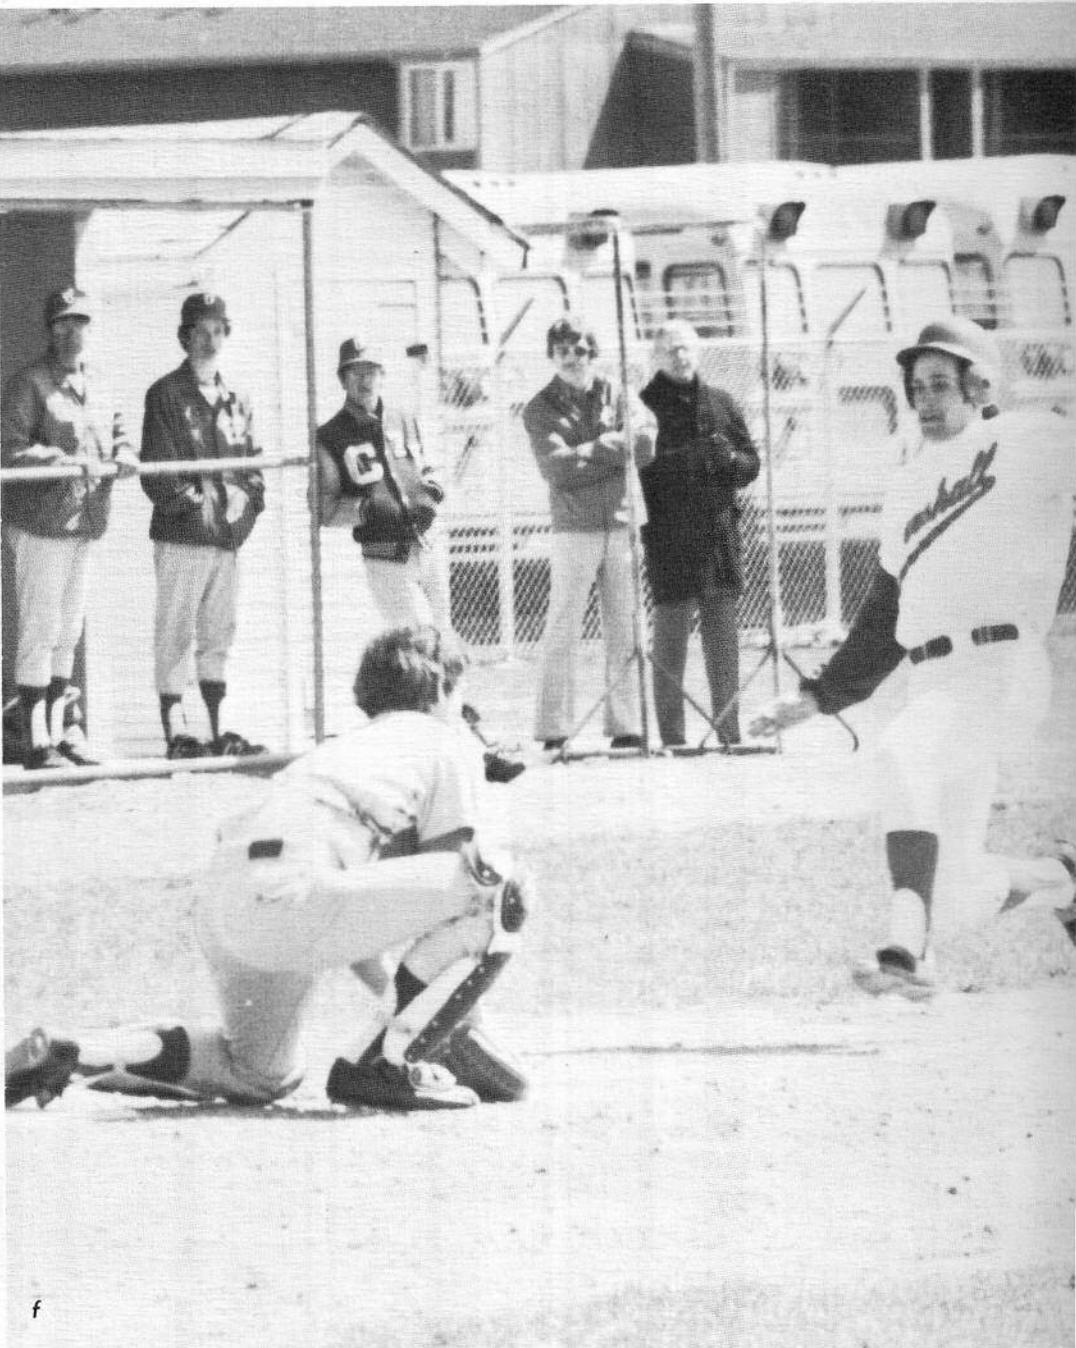

Joe Hicks led the offense with a record 15 home runs while Rick Lynch was the outstanding pitcher of the team. For the 1976 season Tom Carder is expected to take the role of #1 pitcher while other leaders on the team will be John Henry, Mike Shaub, Kevin Goffinet, Elliot Jacobs and Stan Stephens. All of them graduate in 1976. Coach Tremain feels, "These individuals will have to fill big shoes if we are to remain a contender for the city championship."

The 1975 Junior Varsity team will be making up a larger part of the 1976 team, and with them winning 14 of 17 games they should be a lot of help. Many J.V. players played in a summer program that gained them more experience that will hopefully make the 1976 season as successful as the previous two seasons.

Still Proud Of Gridders With 1-9 End

The 1975 John Marshall Football team ended with a one win, nine loss record. A tough schedule and inexperience were the main factors that made winning a difficult task.

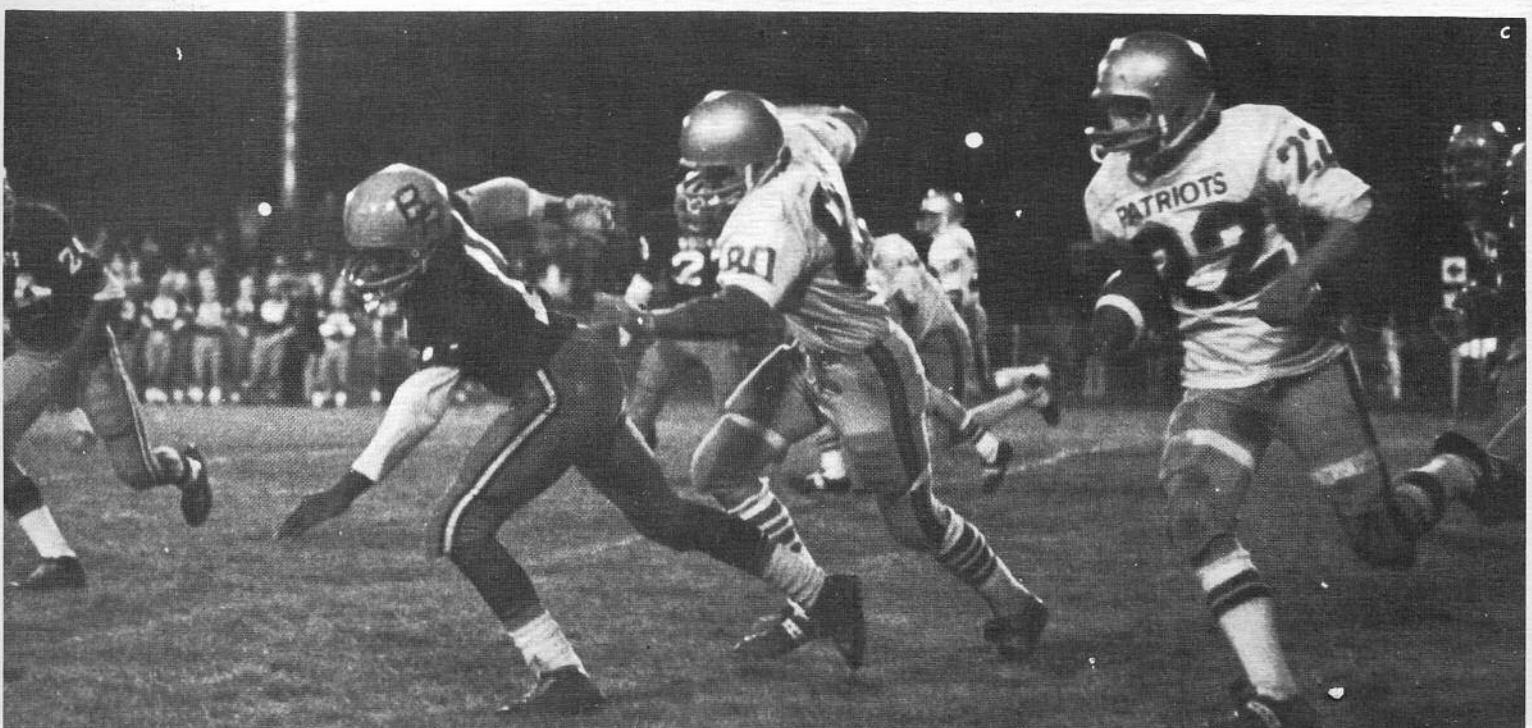

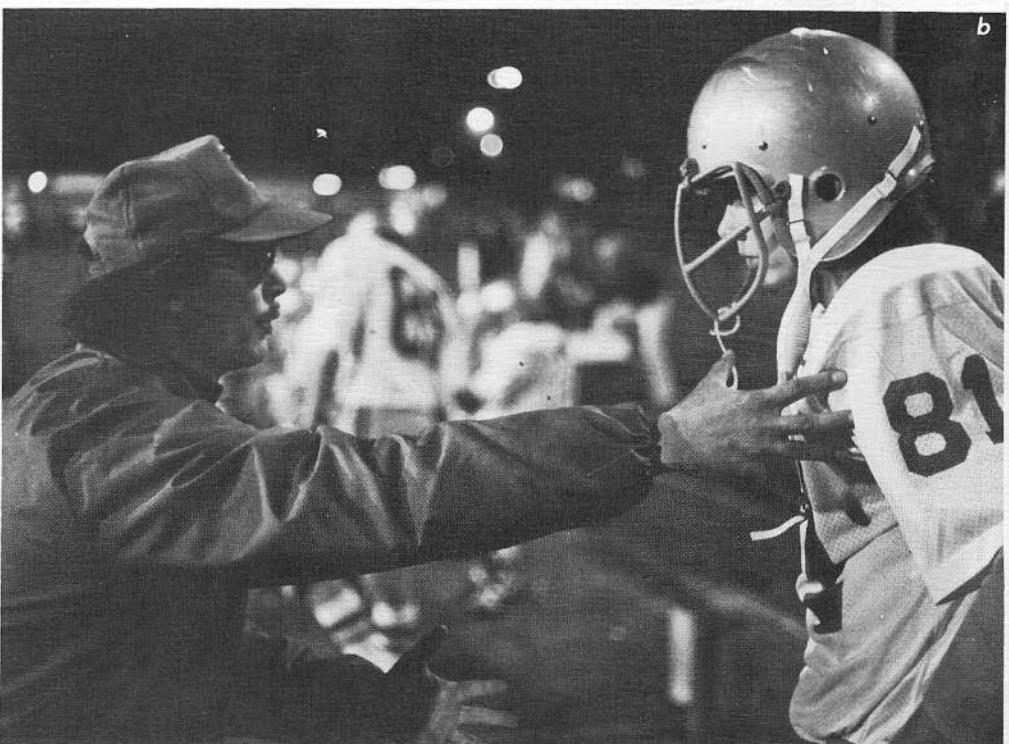

"We lack in experience, but the attitude of these young men made me proud to be out there with them, win, lose, or draw," commented Coach Rod Shaw, "Even with a losing season they still are winners to me."

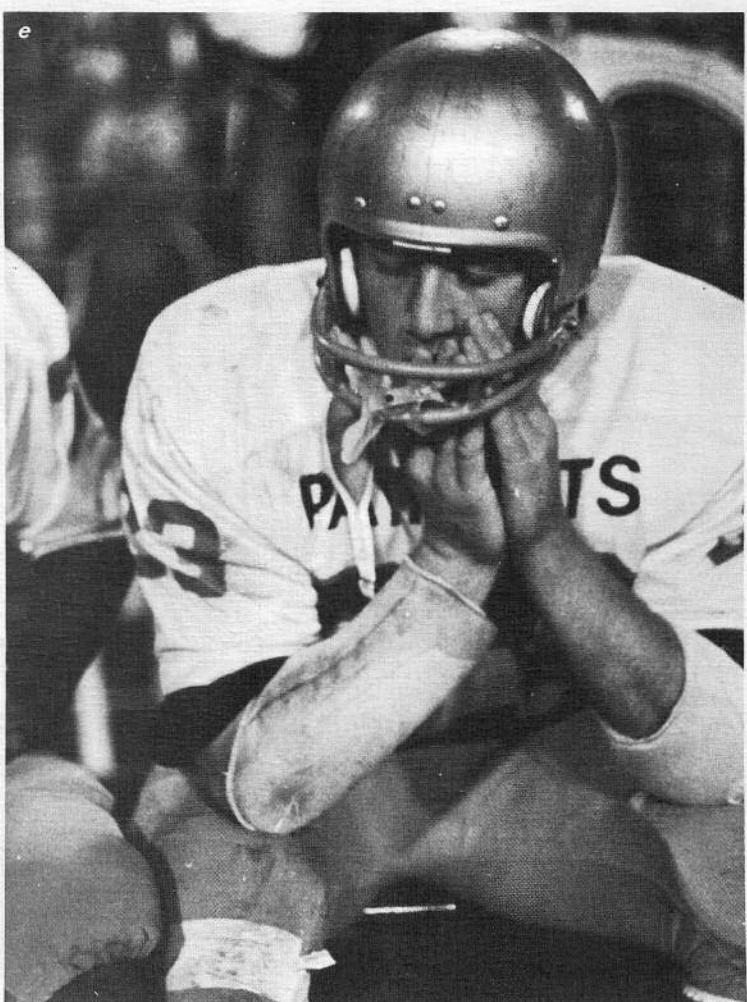

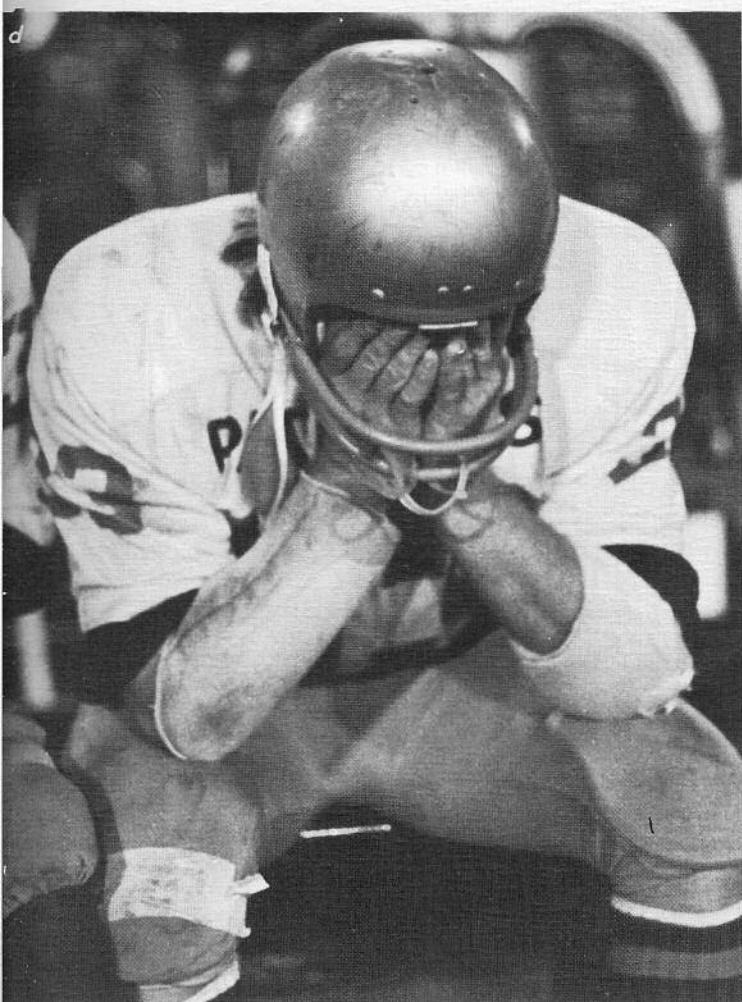

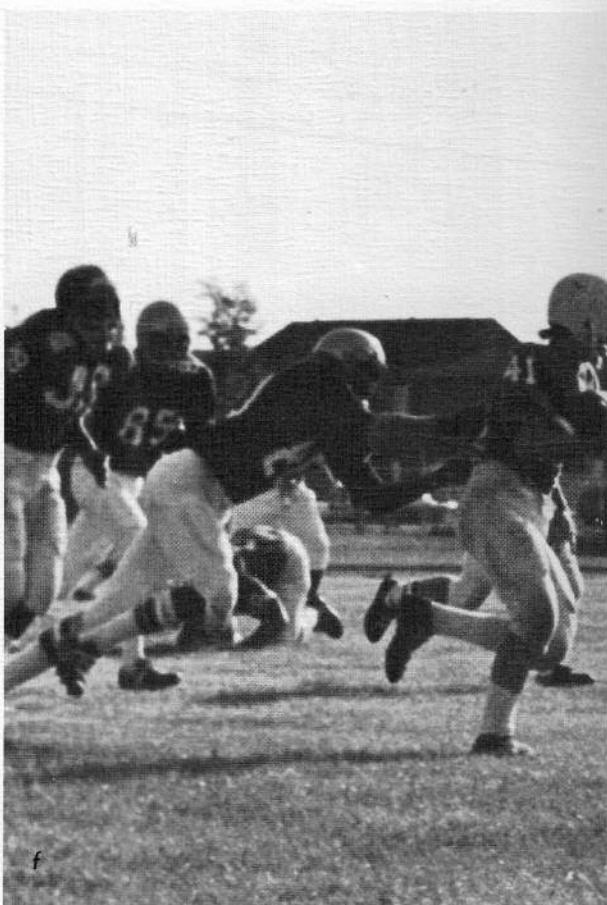

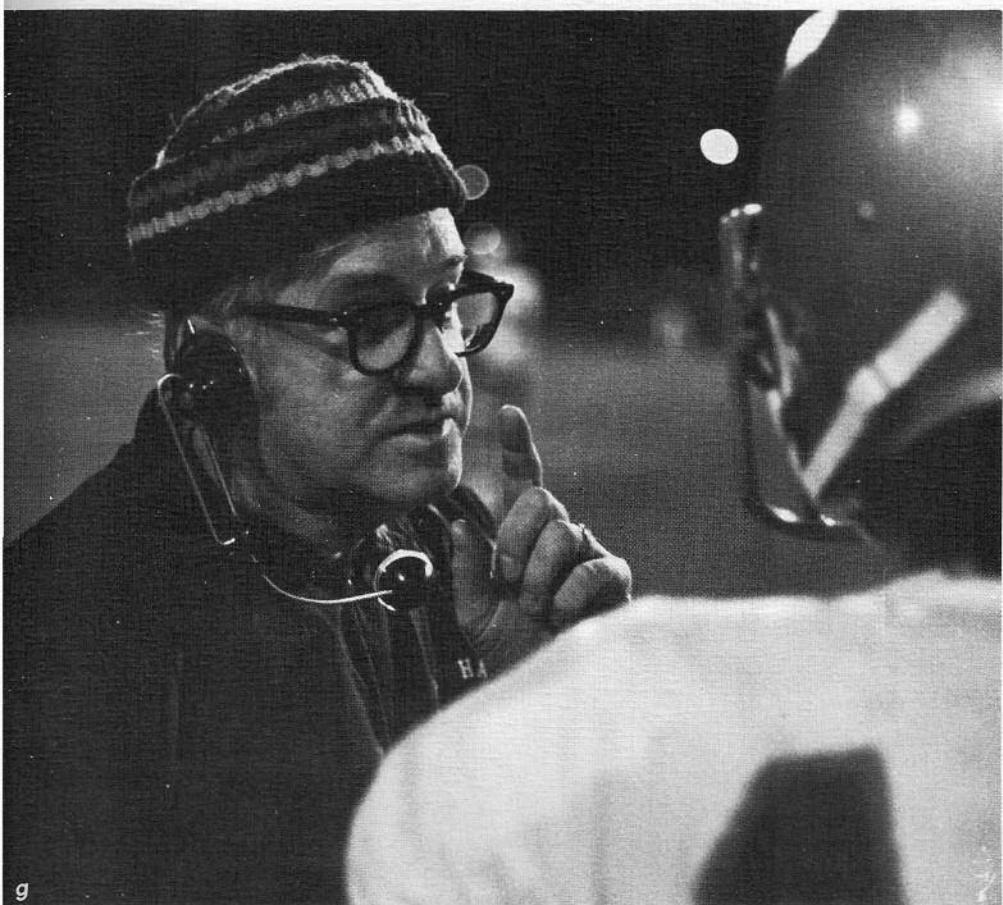

Most Valuable Back was Paul Tuttle and Most Valuable Lineman was George West. West and Jim Bennett were Co-Captains. West also led in fumble recoveries and tackles.

Marshalls' only victory this year was against Arlington.

J.V. ended with a one win, seven loss, and one tie record and the freshmen's Slimy Dogs finished with a four win, five loss season, their best record in four years.

d,e. Football is an emotional game. Along with defeat comes tears and sadness. It is said that maturity is the greatest one benefactor, even so emotions are always hard to hold back.

Patriots Fight Hard at Hinkle

After a disappointing start, Marshall basketball started on the upswing, but then faltered near the end.

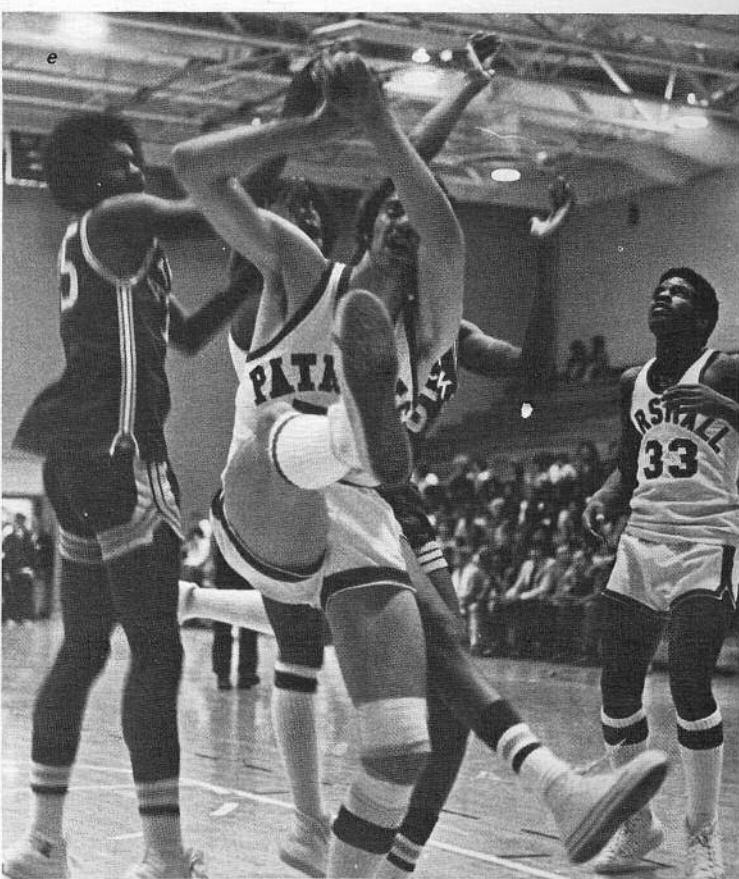

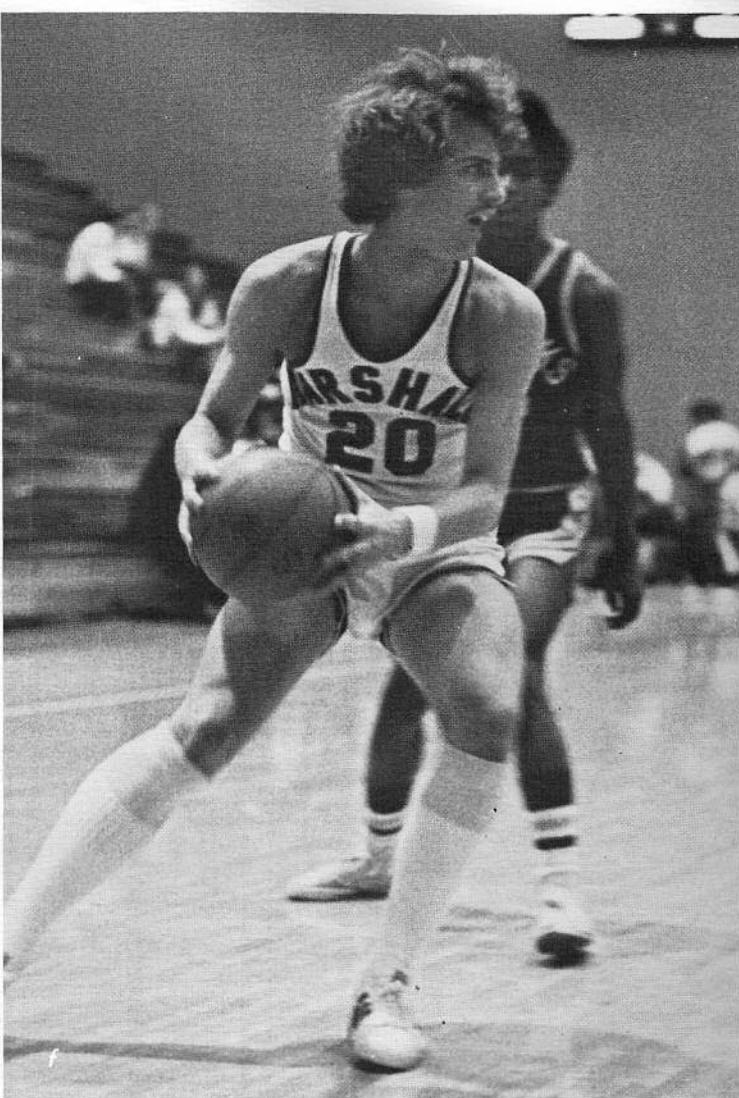

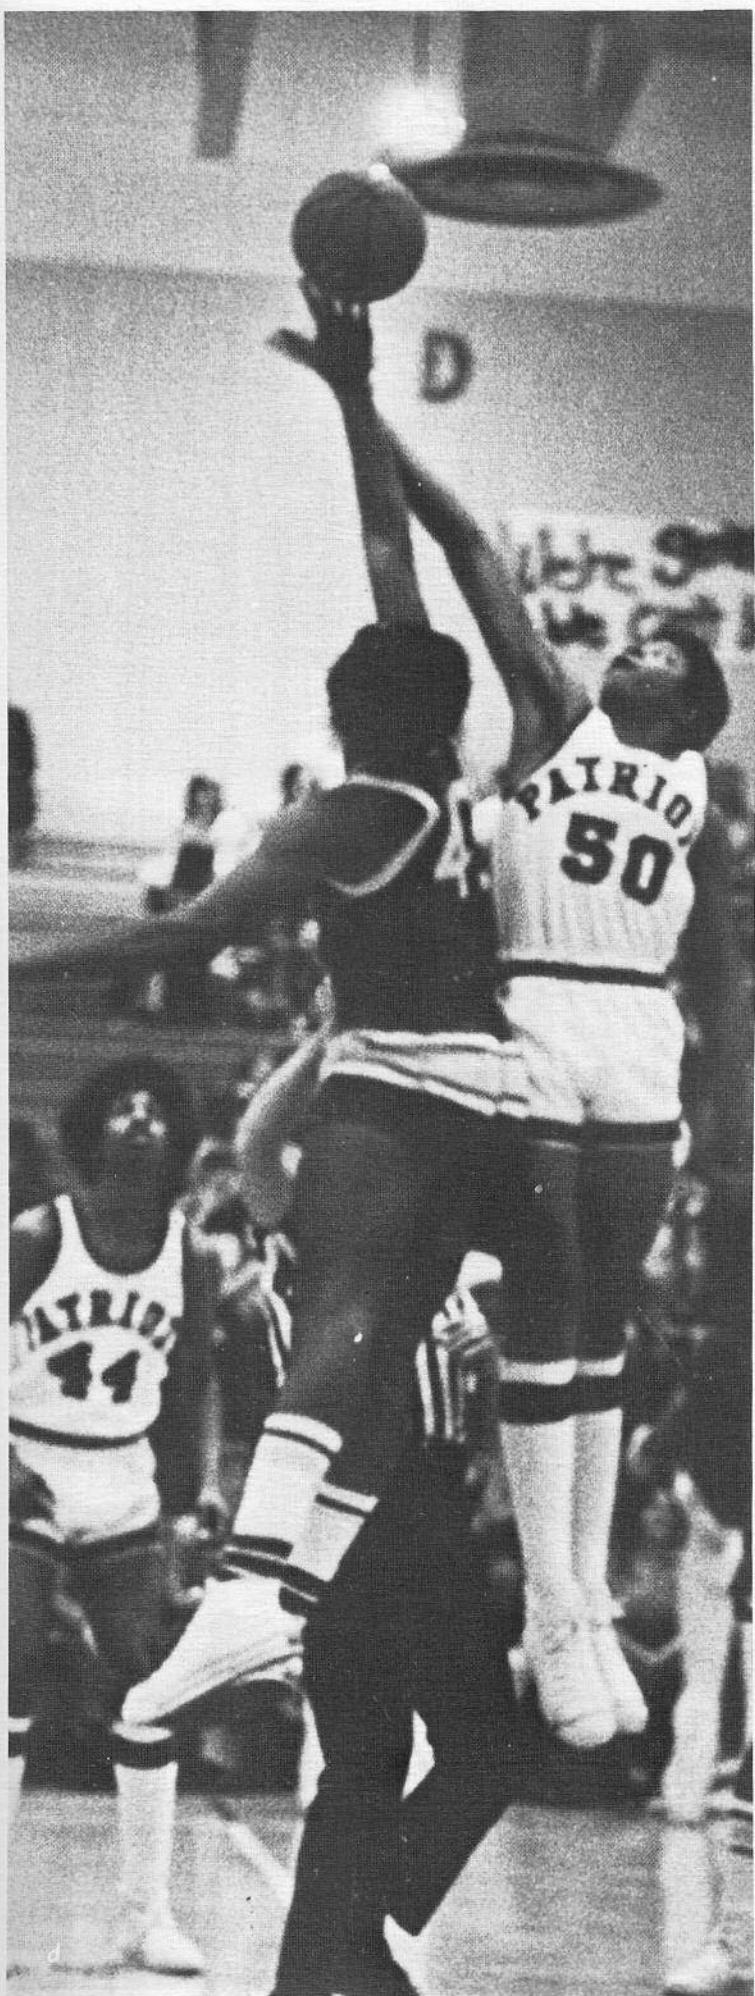

With back-to-back victories against Chatard and North Central, things started to look up for the Patriots. However, a long losing streak followed to be broken by another set of back-to-back wins. This time Attucks and Southport were the victims, and it looked like the team had finally begun to make its mark. However, the team finished the last part of the season and ended the season with a five win, fifteen loss record.

The team was young to begin with losing four seniors, but it matured quickly over the season. The season ended well for the Patriots even though we lost our first sectional game to fourth-ranked Broad Ripple. The teams only sophomore, David Wright, was named to the all-sectional team.

Marshall's Junior Varsity Basketball team had a surprising season with three major upsets. Last year's city champs, Howe and Anderson, both felt the well-balanced Patriot attack. In several games only a few points separated the team from victory.

Lynch gets Semi-State Experience

"The team is young, and I feel they did as well as could be expected", stated Varsity Coach Richard Cummings, "we had two seniors and three freshmen on the team, but we lost Senior George West because of an injury." The Varsity's not-to-impressive record was four wins and eleven losses. They defeated Manual, Columbus East, Broad Ripple and Northwest. "Next year will be good and the year after that should even be better", said Cummings.

Three Varsity wrestlers Senior Rhett Coles, Junior Mark Weaver, and Sophomore Larry Lynch, placed second in the sectionals. Coles went on to finish third in the city and Lynch took second in the regionals and became the first Marshall wrestler to enter semi-state competition.

The J.V. and Freshman squads had similar luck this season with the Freshman team at no wins and five losses while the J.V. team had a two win and nine loss record.

Both Tennis Teams Place 4th in City

In a season of 11 wins and four losses, the team was beaten only by two city teams. Coach John Eason said that "we have one of the best high school tennis players with Doug Opel", a senior. Eason feels the '76-'77 year will be a season of rebuilding after losing five seniors.

The team lost in the first round of the sectionals. As a team, they placed fourth in the city. In their divisions, Doug Opel and Doug Reed were second in the city, also David Byerly and Jeff Duncan were second in doubles competition. Coach Eason stated, "The season as a whole was satisfying."

With great enthusiasm, the Girls' Tennis Team finished its third season with a five win, eight loss record, and fourth place in the City. Coach Karen Dietz started girls' tennis. It is harder everytime picking the girls for the team. This year 45-50 girls went out for the team. Dietz then narrows it down to nine girls. The team has a tough schedule but is looking for a better season in 1976.

a. Senior Jeff Duncan serves a high one during a match. b. Darren Harrison, a junior, gives the ball a shot with his backhand. c. Karen Goins takes a stretch to return the shot. d. Senior Gary Williams enjoys practicing with his own team members. e. During a break in the game, Linda Christensen converses with the opposing team members. f. Sandy Skelly, foreground, and Becky Swinford, background, were a good doubles team.

Young Track Team With Good Future

"We were a good young team with good morale," commented Coach Mike Slabaugh on his 1975 track team.

"We had good leadership from the seniors and outstanding determination from the underclassmen," he added.

Marshall placed sixth in the city tournament with outstanding performances from Seniors Dave Dixon, Tim Grant, Bob Glens and Junior Don Russel.

Dave Dixon came in first in broad jump with a jump of 22 ft. 1½ inches. Grant took second in the Mile, Glen captured third in Pole Vault and Don Russel, a third in high jump.

a. The starter assigns the runners their lanes before the race begins. b. Teammates observe the passing of the baton between Vincent Harrington and David Griswold. c. After receiving the baton, Vincent Harrington begins a 1/4 mile journey around the track. d. Diane Christensen shows her skill in the hurdles. Diane was second in the city in the hurdles. e. Veda Forte gets a lot of height when jumping the running long jump. f. Sandra Coles takes an early lead over the other runners. g. On your mark, get set and BANG! the starter signals the beginning of the race. Yvonne Rivers is quick out of the blocks after the pistol is fired.

Girls Make It to State Track Meet

Last year was the most successful season ever for girls track at Marshall. In a season of seven meets, the girls won six. Eight of the female tracksters scored in the sectionals, two of those went on to score in the regional, and also competed in state competition.

The team was composed of 40 members; by the end of the season it was narrowed to 33. The Coach was Martha Griffin and the team managers were Debra Faith and Karen Cushingberry.

Griffin stated that the JV girls deserved just as much recognition because they worked as hard as the girls who received the varsity award.

The season was marked with an excellent record—victories in five of six dual meets and another victory in a three-way meet.

The two girls who went to the regional and state were Velaina Keys and Dianna Christensen; both are now seniors. The only senior of the '75 team was Sean Paff.

Soccer gets Third City Title in Row

The Soccer Club is the elite of the elite. They won the City Championship for the '74 and '75 seasons and hope to continue their reign for the season ending in 1976.

During the 1975-76 season the club had at least seven shut-outs. These were not only against city schools but county schools as well.

The club which is sponsored by the Foreign Language Department has played for only three years, during which they only lost one game to the rival Lawrence Central Bears. Leading position of excellence in 1974-75 were seniors Kevin Cecil, Billy Reid, Bob Carney and Tony Padro. In 1975-76 the team and league's leading scorer was Randy Hartman, a junior.

Bowling is Undefeated In 4 Years

"The cross country team was young and inexperienced, which explains our no win, 13 loss record." This is what Mike Slabaugh said about his cross country team.

Despite the poor record, the team performed well with Don Russel, the only senior runner doing a great job. With seven freshmen the team lacked the experience needed to do well in a sport like this. Next year the team is expected to do better since the freshmen will be more experienced and almost everyone will be returning.

Marshall's Bowling team enjoyed a three-year unbeaten streak. This year the team continued as in the past, winning game after game and are currently undefeated in their history at Marshall.

The success of the team could be attributed to the effort of Seniors Laurie Gaizat, Ed Lembke, Michelle Pfeuffer and many others. A first for the team came this year when Junior Steve Pauley bowled a 720 series, the first in the team's history. With team members like this, next year's team should do just as well.

Girls Make History in Sectionals

The team started slowly, losing four of its first seven games. After Christmas the team hit its stride and won nine and lost two for a combined season total of twelve wins and six losses. They played their best basketball of the season in the sectionals defeating Chatard and Warren Central before losing in a close game to Ladywood St. Agnes.

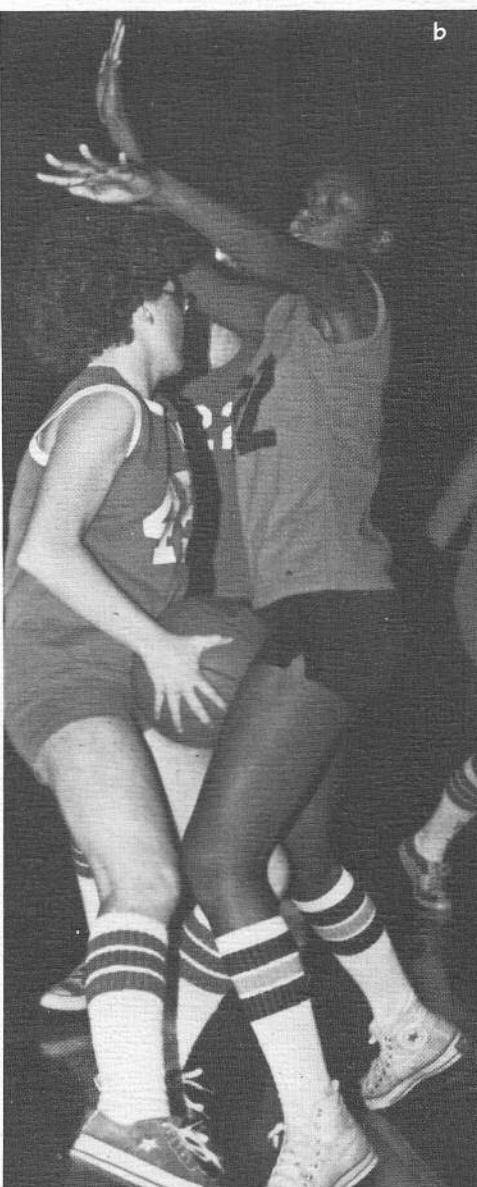

Throughout the season, the team was dominated by the four seniors, Dianna Christenson, Linda Arnold, Karen Goins, and Monica Schluge. Junior Sue Erickson, the fifth starter, will be a key member of next year's team. Lynda Dyke, a freshman this year, will also be important to next year's team. Linda Christenson, Maureen Lawley, Susie Napper and Barb Warner will be returning next year and there are several girls from this year's J.V. who will be playing a lot of varsity ball next year.

This year's varsity was probably the hardest working, most dedicated basketball team that Marshall has ever had and the four seniors will be missed.

Volleyball Team 2nd in Sectional

The 1975 girls Varsity Volleyball team finished their winning season with a 13-5 record and as sectional runner-ups.

Top scorer for the team was four-year letterman Dianna Christensen. Rhonda Rushton was another standout with her setting and serving.

Juniors Tina Knapp, Penny Thompson, Linda Christensen and Sue Erickson showed fine play for the underclassmen. The girls played good team ball with outstanding attitude.

J.V. also finished in the win column with a 9-8 final record.

Co-Ed Squad Effective with Crowd

"I like it because I make new friends", commented Mark Pack. Mark is just one of six male cheerleaders this year who has promoted spirit in school and at basketball games. The girls like the boys on the squad because it, ". . . makes cheerleading more spectacular overall," said Debbie Fontana. This is the second year that Marshall has had male cheerleaders and for the second year, the squad was received with much enthusiasm.

This years J.V. squad went to a cheerleading camp this summer and received a superior rating for their efforts. The Frosh squad was made up of sincere girls who worked very well together.

Patriettes Perform at Half-Time

The basketball Patriettes, after losing more than half of their seniors at the season's start, still combined to put on unique half-time shows for the fans. "We weren't as well organized as we would have liked, but we still had a lot of fun", stated Senior Linda Spang, captain of the group. The other officers were Senior Robin Hungerford, Senior Debbie Johnson and Seniors Sharon and Linda McCaffery. To cut expenses the girls made their own uniforms and they also sold candy to raise money for the Senior Banquet. The Patriettes sponsor was Pat Lanahan.

"Considering what they had to work against, they did a very good job," stated Ms. Karen Dietz, the Matmaids' sponsor. The Matmaids are a group of 25 girls who are really active in cheering the wrestlers on in all of their matches. The group is mostly freshman and sophomores and are assembled under the governing body of Seniors Debbie Powell, Sue Holden, Linda Emerick and Sophomore Diane Goldman. The girls' Project this year was a spirit blanket with all the wrestling boosters names embroidered on it.

Foods, Grammar, and Fun

English has many different courses involved. When one is a freshman only the basic English is required. When a sophomore begins his second semester he gets to choose an elective. Different electives are available for sophomores this year. Some of these electives are Journalism, Heroes and Heroines in Literature and Word Power. The juniors and seniors had a wider variety of electives offered to them.

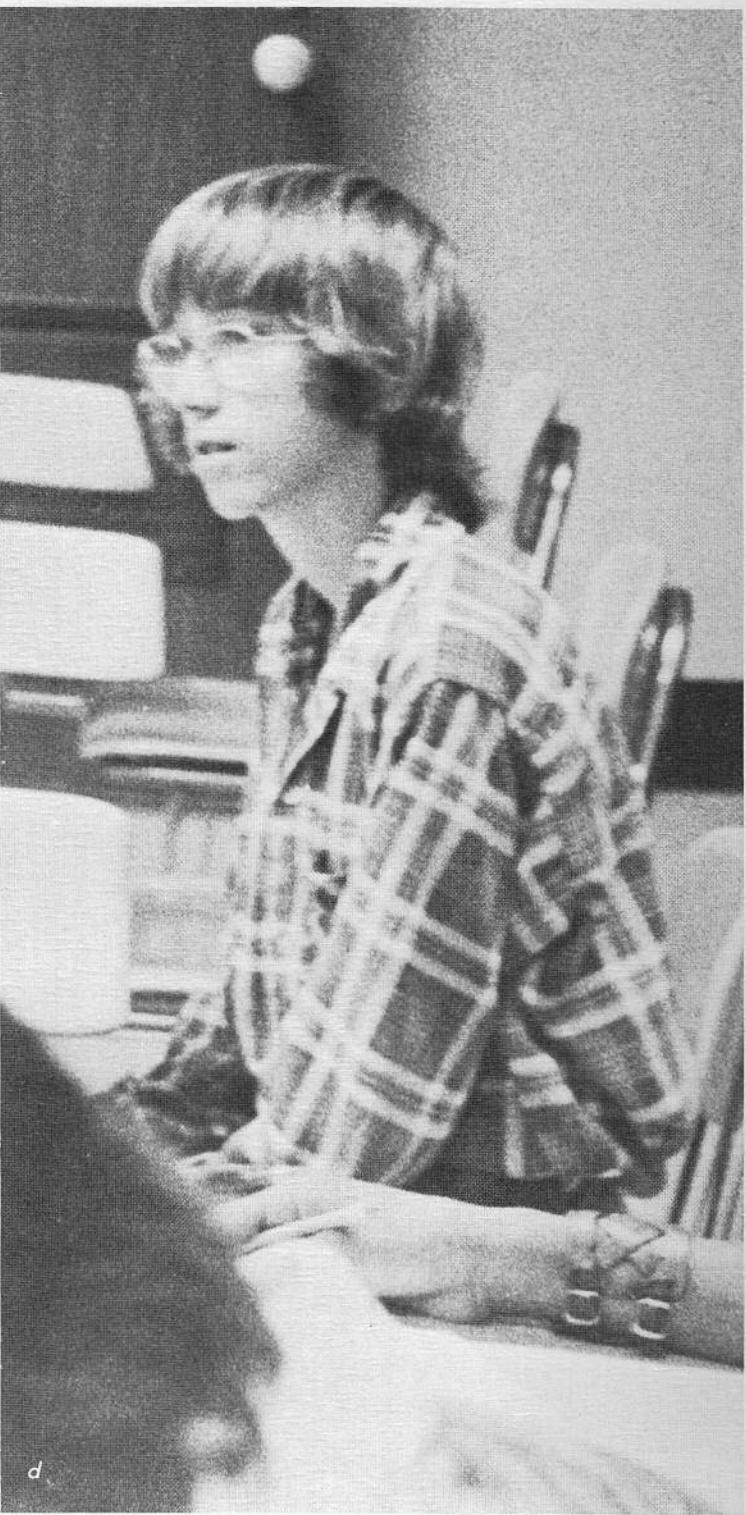

One of the most interesting electives is Folklore. It is only offered to juniors and seniors. In this class they did things like baking bread and cakes and making jelly. They made miniature chimneys out of mud and rocks. Joyce Tellstrom and Rochelle Owsley taught Folklore this year.

Numbers, Digits, Computers

Of the 2,400 students at Marshall, 1,510 of them are enrolled in a mathematics course. When the department first began, only basic classes were included in the curriculum. Marshall's Math Department has since then expanded. Now students can elect from 19 available semesters of math which range from basic arithmetic courses to independent study courses and advanced math, open only to juniors and seniors. Advanced math classes learn about the more complicated facets of mathematics. Students study trigonometry functions, vectors, curve sketching and limits.

The computer math course is a popular one since it's "hands-on" activity where the students learn a program language for the computer and how to program everything from games to problem solving. The Math Department is hoping to have a tie-in to a Honeywell computer at the Education Center. The computer will handle most of the programming languages. It will provide good practical experience for students who are involved in or interested in a computer field.

a. This math class seems half confused over their assignment. b. Senior Terry Lolla is puzzled by a problem on the computer. c. Here he seems to have figured out his problem and is finishing the project. d. Karen Paxson explains the principles of math to her class. e. Tammy Flynn is trying to complete her math assignment.

Criminal Justice Introduced

Patriots had a new class to choose from in the Social Studies Department called Criminal Justice. The course was designed to teach the students what the law is during the first semester. The second semester, the students went downtown to perform actual police work. Dan Meek, teacher of the new class and a local attorney, when asked if the class was interested, stated, "The kids are very interested. We don't have enough time to answer all the questions and still have time left to cover the material."

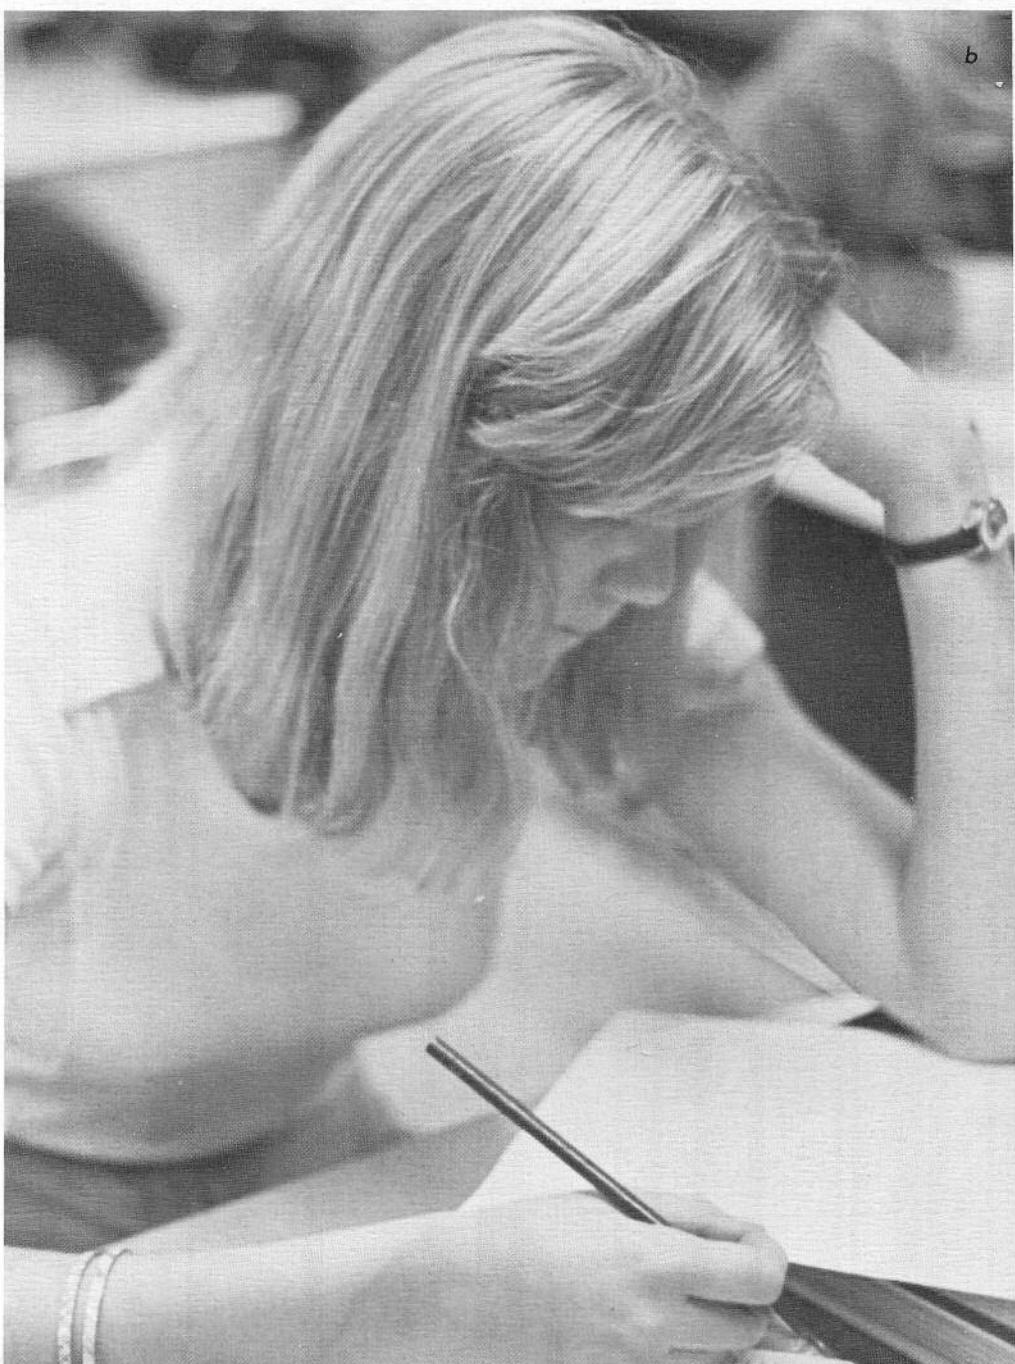

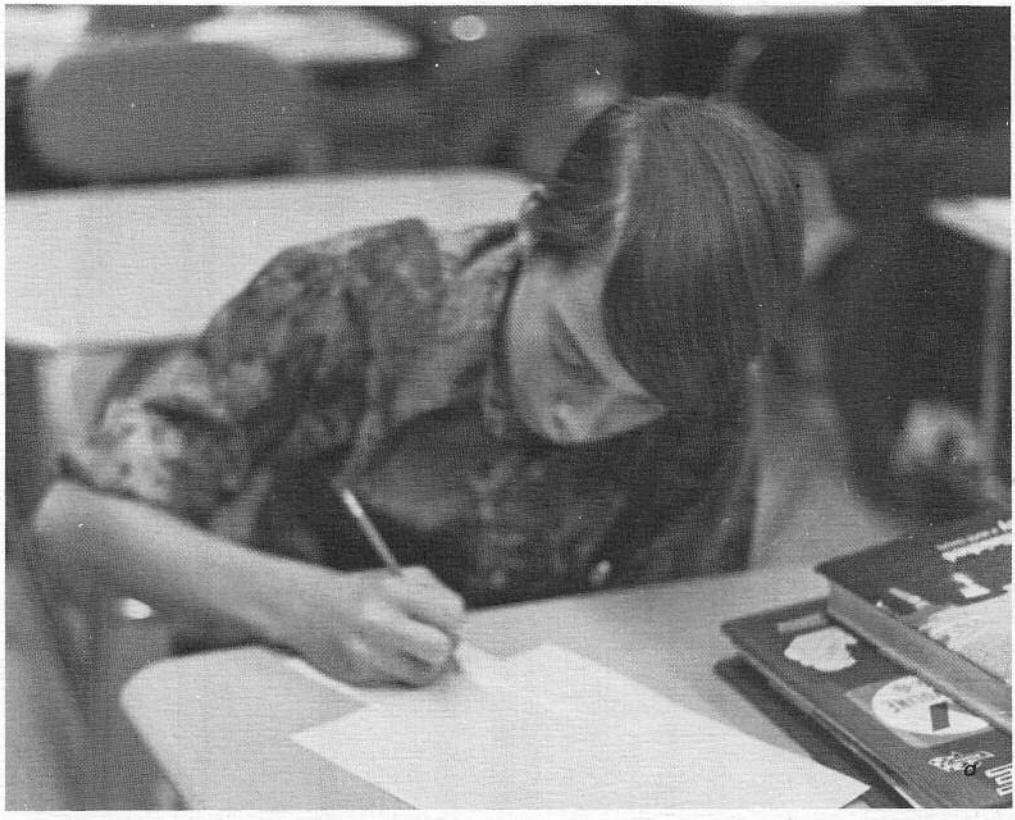

In government Pats not only studied different aspects of the government on state, national and local levels but also learned where to call in case of various problems.

Students in World Civilization studied African and Asian culture along with the more traditional European history.

In U. S. History Patriots celebrated the 200th birthday with Bicentennial scrapbooks. Along with this they learned about the foundation of the country.

Map work is not nearly as important as it used to be in World Geography. Pats enrolled in this class learned how people's life style was shaped by the resources attainable along with the map work.

Bird Trips, Plants, and Okefenokee

Students in Botany studied the plant kingdom in depth to get a better idea of that branch of Biology. Along with the Zoology students, they took field trips to Baker Farms, St. Louis, Chicago and, the major trip of the year, to Okefenokee Swamp in the spring.

Biology students had an over-all view of the field of science. They collected insects and leaves in the fall and studied birds in the spring. The highlight for many was the dissection of animals at the end of the year.

Advanced Chemistry students participated in field trips to the water company and Stokely Van Camp. Along with this, they also learned about different chemicals and did many experiments.

Patriots enrolled in Anatomy and Physiology studied the function of the human body. The class is taught by Robert Weaver.

Language

Classes Add

New Ideas

The Foreign Language Department started out with new ideas and high hopes for the forthcoming school year. Trips were planned and different foreign language events were already taking place.

The German Classes had their calendar filled full with ideas and things they were going to do this year. Candy selling was the one project for them. Whoever sold the most candy bars went to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, all expenses paid. The Octoberfest was in October; German singing and dancing were some of the activities there. Mr. Tressler's Polka Dancers made appearance after appearance for different people including the governor of Indiana.

The French Club made various pastries such as crepe this year. The students sold giant coloring books for the department, and they went to a French restaurant in Indiana.

All in all the foreign language students did have a busy year, and there was plenty of time for the learning the fundamentals of a foreign language, also.

a. Dennis Waggoner, Tom Brown, Ricky Blackburn, Steve Bales and Brice Tressler take time out to enjoy themselves with a German game. b. German teacher Brice Tressler, who has recently shaven his familiar full-faced beard, was one of the leading directors of the Octoberfest. c. Senior Michelle Faulkner and Jon Buttram demonstrate the popular German dance, the Lindler. d. To help her better understand the French language, Junior Trixie Land listens to a tape on conversation. e. Michelle Faulkner listens attentively during class. f. Collete Darling and Chris Stark perform during their French class.

Living

Favored

This year the theme for the Home Economics Department was the Bicentennial. Outfits were made by clothing classes and they participated in a spring fashion show during the Festival of the Arts. Foods students learned cooking techniques used 200 years ago.

Family Living classes had guest speakers from Planned Parenthood and Family Service Association. Students also participated in skits about marriage. They read and reported on articles pertaining to family life.

Senior Foods was added to the curriculum this spring for students who completed six semesters of foods.

Industrial Arts Offer Variety

"The Industrial Arts Department continued to offer a wide variety of classes," Clifton Scott, head of the department, said. Indeed they did, with everything from welding to mechanical drawing being offered.

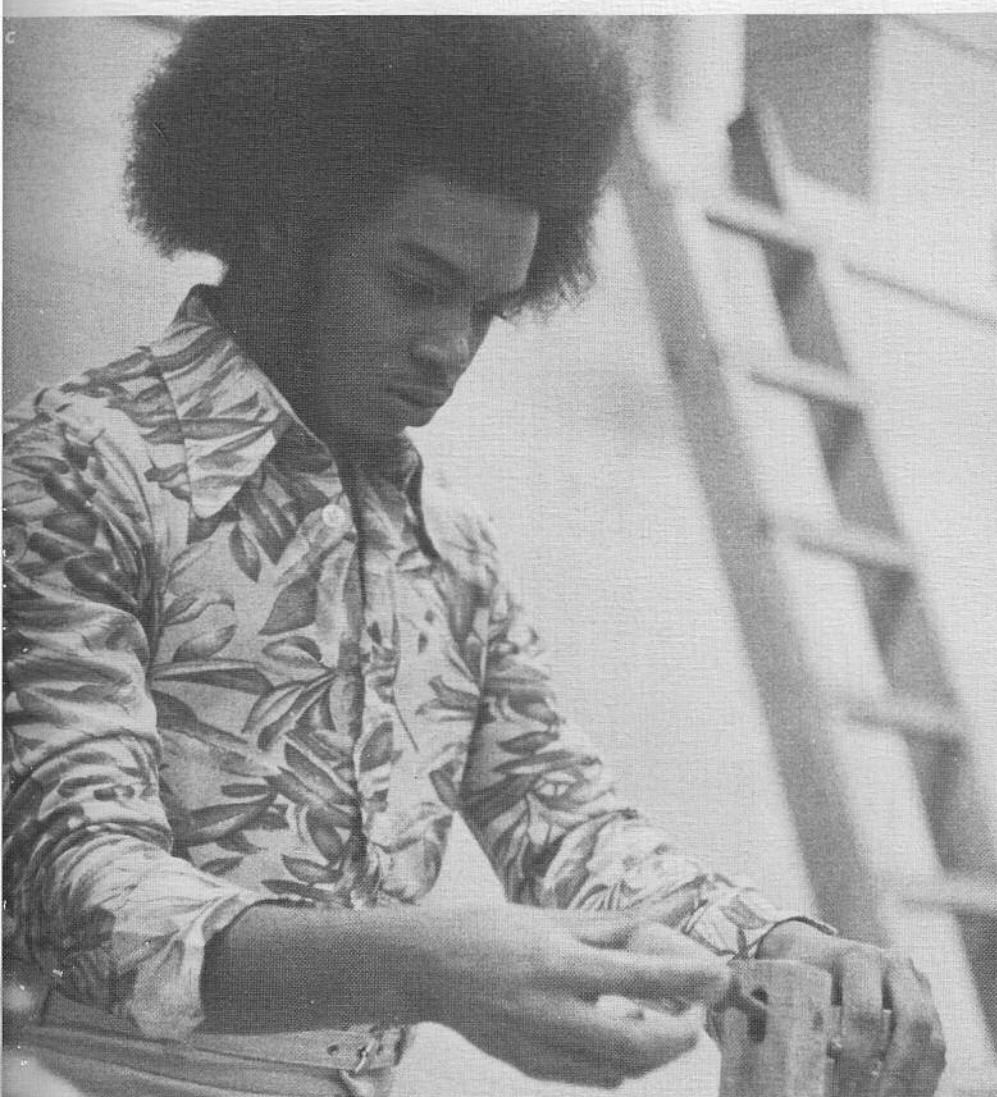

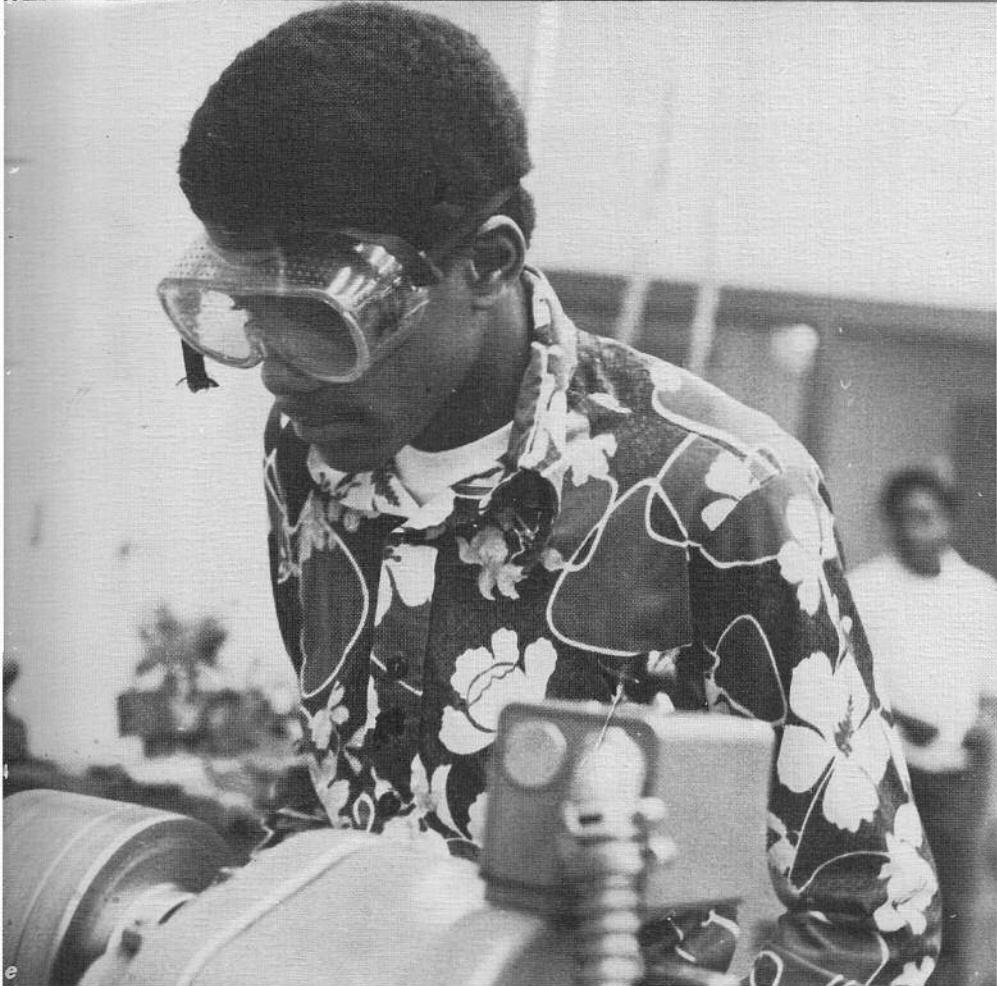

Introduction to shop was a freshman course which showed the variety of industrial arts offered. One six weeks might be in masonry shop, another in power mechanics and the last in printing. This way the students could get over-all view and see which class they would like to take in future years. Some students had no intentions of taking any more shop classes, but simply wanted to have a little knowledge in this field. One student stated, "I think this way is the best, so you do not enroll in a subject that you may not be interested in."

Another class that has a large enrollment is aerospace. Many students remarked that they enjoyed the class because it was something they were interested in.

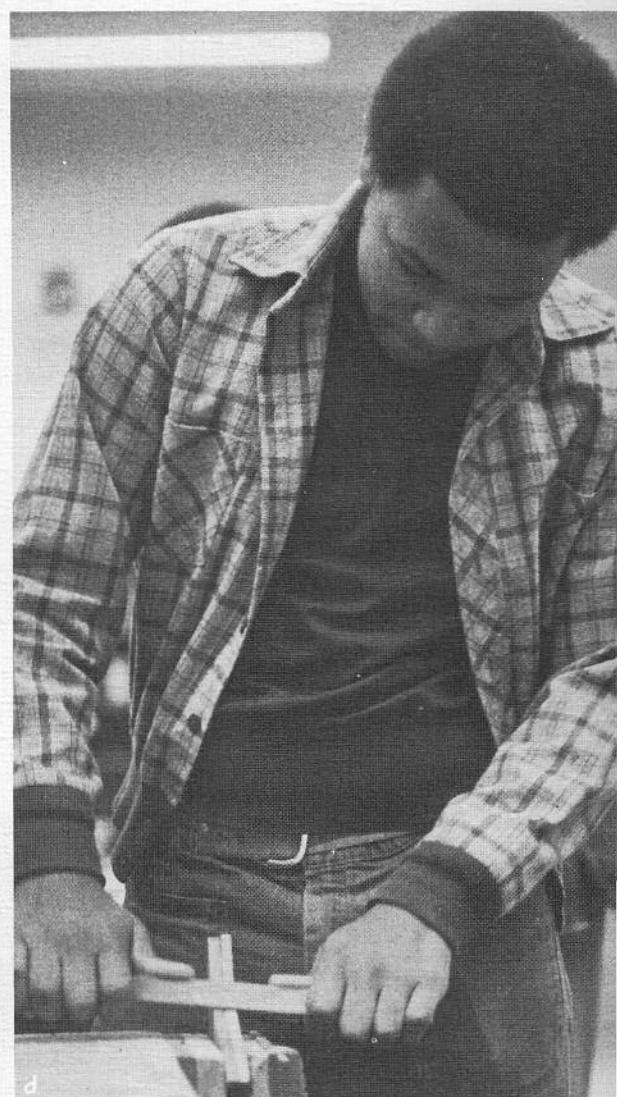

Masonry Shop and Welding were classes that prepared students for the future. The students studied these classes in detail and were well on their way to becoming good enough to be professionals in their chosen field.

Mechanical drawing was popular with both boys and girls.

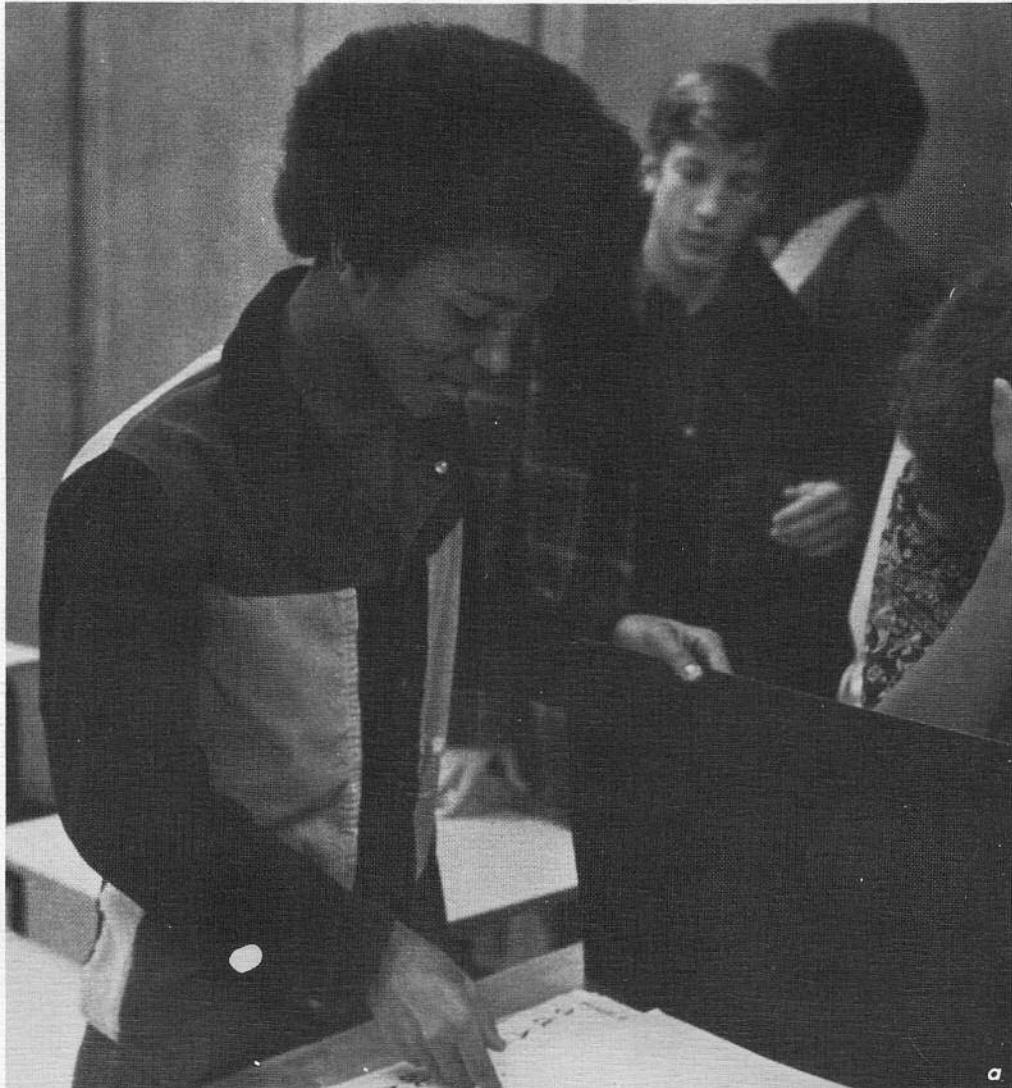

a. David Bright and Norman Brodus work with a circular saw while John Phillips looks on. b. This student works hard on his machinery. c. Anthony Gaines uses a glueing technique to construct a board. d. This student smooths out the rough edges on his project. e. Everyone must wear goggles to protect their eyes; this student shows what type of machinery you use when you wear them.

a. Mark Weaver admires a folder full of materials in commercial art. b. Debbie Barcus finds that sewing in crafts class is not as boring as she expected. c. Seniors Andre Perdue and Jim Clements decide on which tip to use for their pens in Advanced Art. d. Randy King seems to think that sewing should be left to the girls. e. Michael Pollard concentrates hard as he puts finishing touches on a project.

Textiles Added to Curriculum

"Art is wonderful," proclaimed Art teacher Mike Slabaugh. Marshall offers a variety of art courses, Department Head Edward Ring said, "There are art courses for about any student; You don't have to be able to draw, our craft courses were designed with the average student in mind. Some of our courses are career oriented such as Photography, Jewelry, Stagecraft and Commercial Art. Art should be considered important because practically everything about us originated with an artist."

A new textile course was created this year. "This is to give students a chance to work with fabric, yarn and materials," stated Ring.

Business

Education

Popular

Nearly 40 per cent of every senior class has majored in business. Total percentage of the Patriots enrolled in business courses equals nearly 70 per cent of the student body.

New courses include Commercial Geography in the second semester since Consumer Business is only one semester. Commercial Geography aids understanding of economics in the country.

Typing 1 is being offered to the students in the second semester because of student schedules first semester.

General Business classes teach the student the understanding of the American business system or as Janet Weaver says, "to what he gives to and to what he receives from."

a. Six-foot-four Robert Hinds must squat to check Sophomore Sherry Todd's accuracy on her timed writing in Typing 1. Hind's extra activities include coaching Senior Powder Puff Football teams. b. Brenda Carr, a junior, is going through the tedious but necessary task of adding columns in Accounting 1. c. Although Scott Lutocka seems to be concentrating on his typing, he is actually anticipating the outcome of the sixth game in the world series between his favorite, the Cincinnati Reds, and the Boston Red Sox. d. Sophomore Debbie Hyde is busily typing her assignment. Many students took typing for their own personal reference as well as for a career.

Girls Teams Are Rapidly Increasing

Driver's Education was offered again this spring for Seniors who were interested. Also, Driver's Ed was offered to students who were at least 15 and a half years old during summer school.

The girl's Physical Education classes worked on tumbling, the horse and the balance beam while the boys worked on calisthenics and wrestling. All freshmen are required to take PE I and II.

In Health, students studied diseases and their causes. They also studied the effects of drugs, alcohol and tobacco on the human body.

a. Large signs on Driver's Education cars were used to warn innocent motorists. b. Tammy Rittenhouse energetically volleys the ball. c. Theodore Pollack aids Junior Mark Pack on the bar. d. Sidney Tate and Danny Williams discuss the physical aspects of health. e. Seniors, Don Schroeder, Stan Breeden, David Ellis, Bob Duncan, and George West demonstrate a rope race.

Band is Hard but Rewarding

Hard indeed was the life of a band member at Marshall this year, besides the first period every day a lot of personal effort is poured into practicing.

The final outcome, a good performance may look easy to the audience but only after many hours of work did it come to be. One student remarked "Band wasn't only a class, it was a way of life, more so if you were in special bands like marching and pep band." Despite the amount of hard work almost all members agreed that the reward made it worth the trouble.

The band often gets most of the attention when people look at the Music Department, although the choir certainly deserves recognition. This class too requires a great amount of dedication and work the whole year through. The students this year kept up in high tradition of vocal competition.

a. At 8:32 Jermone Wade and Delvin Bock have already worked up a sweat on their saxophones. b. Arvin Foreman and Kathe Stewart toot out the "Emperata Overture" on their trombones.

Sarge and Seniors Celebrate

Sarge and the graduating Seniors both celebrate a full four years together in '76. Otherwise known as Master Sergeant William R. Pennington, by all informed cadets, he coached us through a year of senioritis, parties, and inspections, parades, and victories.

The JR.O.T.C. Battalion at JMHS was victorious in the biggest event of the year, we placed first, not second but first in the Veterans Day Parade. We also have the banner for an award, and a lot of happy memories and smiles to prove it.

Girls in the corps were taught by a new addition, Sergeant First Class Ruth Johnson. From her cheerfulness to his sternness, we had quite a time.

There is a very capable bunch of Juniors behind us, they're learning, as we've learned, the ins and outs of being the JR.O.T.C. "brass" and leaders. They in turn are backed by a varying group of shining sophomores. The freshmen, as usual need help and practice, but in the end I'm sure they'll be as bright and outstanding as those before them.

Once again Seniors fell into traditional habits of going into service, but this time there was more emphasis on Academics and R.O.T.C. scholarships.

Sarge deserves a big hand, because despite his occasional mistakes, occasional?, he brought us through and made sure we were justly awarded for our efforts.

To JM from the cadet corps "We'll continue to do our best as long as we represent the best."

c. Standing ridgely at attention Don Williams displays the high standards that exist in ROTC. d. Tom Gregory views instructions on the correct way a uniform should be worn from Derek Paff.

Drivers Ed

Dominates

Curriculum

"This year more than 2300 adults attend evening school at Marshall to expand their knowledge and master a variety of skills," stated Clifford Snyder, director of the night school. Night school offered a wide variety of interests. These included not only high school completion classes but also personal interest courses. One of the more popular classes was yoga. Students enrolled learned the basic Hatha Yoga. A new class with a large backlog was Miss Fixit. This course allowed housewives to learn how to repair common household problems like leaky faucets and patching holes. A popular class for a long time has been interior decorating. People enrolled used skills they attained in this class for years to come. The high school completion program continued to perform well by bringing about 100 students to their long standing goal, a high school diploma.

Summer School continues to be dominated by Drivers Education but still many other classes were offered. Many students simply wanted to enjoy their summer more by taking such courses as aerospace or power mechanics. Along with this many people picked up a credit they needed.

a. Bruce Everett checks to see that Marcia Brown's pulse is normal in summer school Health class. b. Mrs. Chasey, government teacher at night school, checks her attendance before beginning her class. c. While his classmates focus on the lesson, this student seems to have caught the eye of the girl in the back row. d. Somewhat grudgingly, Mr. Deal turns over the keys to a prospective driver in Drivers Education.

Faculty Goes That Extra Step to Help

As well as classroom activities, many John Marshall teachers also go one step further to help sponsor the extras that make school fun. Whether it be bird watching, spelunking, bowling, dancing, writing, or performing, students can find teachers to share their interests.

Most students find that the teachers are not just instructors of subject matter, but they are also interested in becoming friends who care about performance in and out of the classroom.

a. David Smartz relaxes in the business office after putting in a long day. b. Bob Hinds checks a student's work in BOP. c. At the free throw line Hinds sinks the ball. d. John Deal, Bob Hinds, Don Glesing, Brad Goffinet, and Irvin Graves, all teachers at Marshall, huddle during one of their Sunday afternoon basketball games. e. Always smiling, Cindy Featheringill takes a moment's rest from her busy schedule.

Senior Year is Not Just Any Year to Them

Senior class officers were elected during Senior study. The officers were Tom Carder, president; Mike Bordenkircher, vice-president; Gail Tremain, alumni secretary; Lori Jacobson, secretary, and Brenda Adams, treasurer.

One job the president had was to appoint committees such as the executive committee which made many decisions such as the time and place of the Senior Breakfast. Some sign-up committees were Halloween and Valentine message committees, the bulletin board committee, and the Christmas decorating committee.

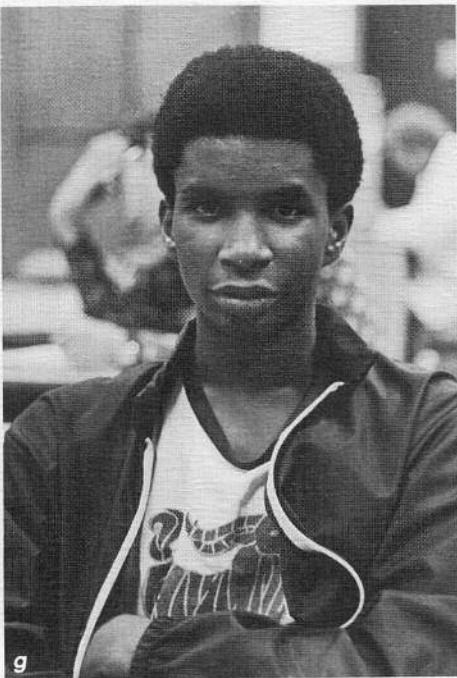

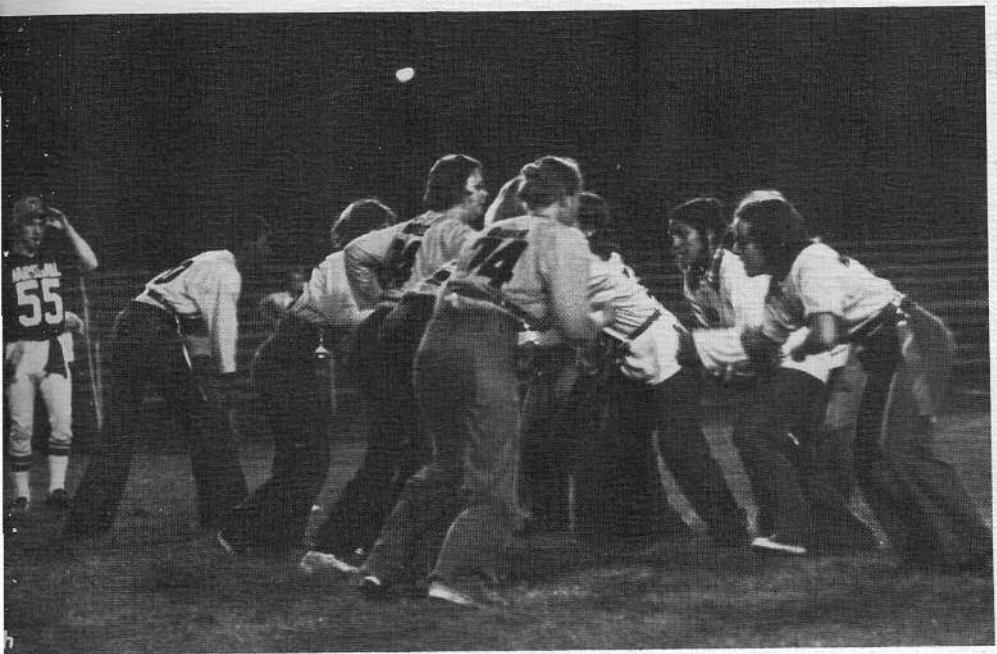

This year's Powder-Puff game brought in approximately $400.00 for the Senior class treasury. Other sources of income for the treasury were the selling of different seasonal messages. Much of the money was used to buy a gift for the school from the class of 1976.

Juniors Look Ahead to Autumn

With three years left behind them and an anxious year of being a senior ahead, juniors got involved in many school activities to show that the class of '77 was the class that couldn't be beat.

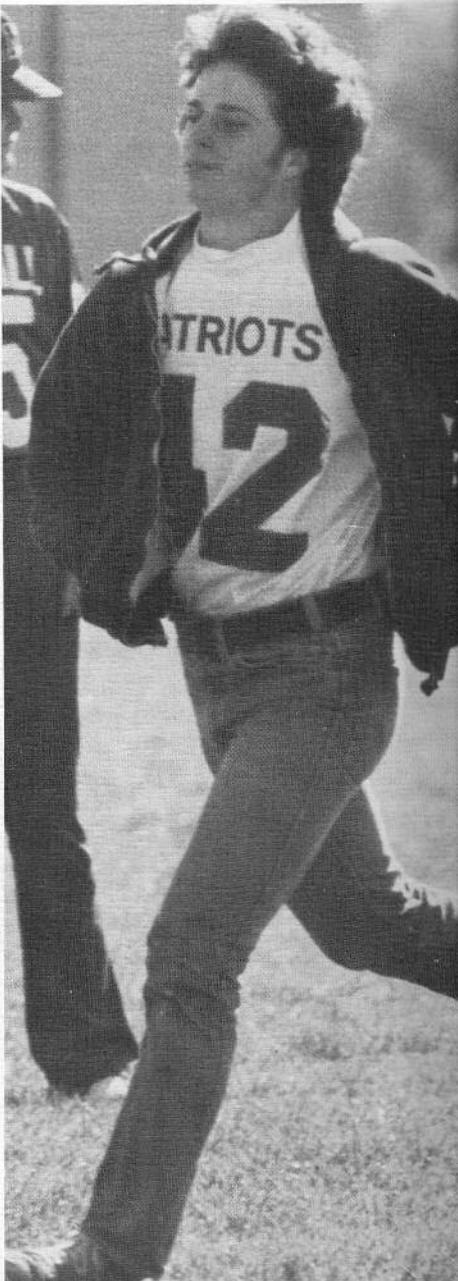

Juniors participated in a great number of sports activities such as baseball, football, girls volleyball and track. Many joined various clubs and organizations and had a great representation of juniors in the Naturalists' Club.

Realizing they had only one year of high school left, juniors began to think about college. Many students took the PSAT-NMSQT in preparation for the SAT they would take later for entrance into college. Others who wanted to start a job after high school instead of attending college took such courses as D.E. and Career Education.

Sophomores Accept Challenges of School

New doors opened to sophomores as they eagerly accepted the challenges and consequences. Academic and extra curricular activities filled the long days the sophomores experienced while their spirits were kept high.

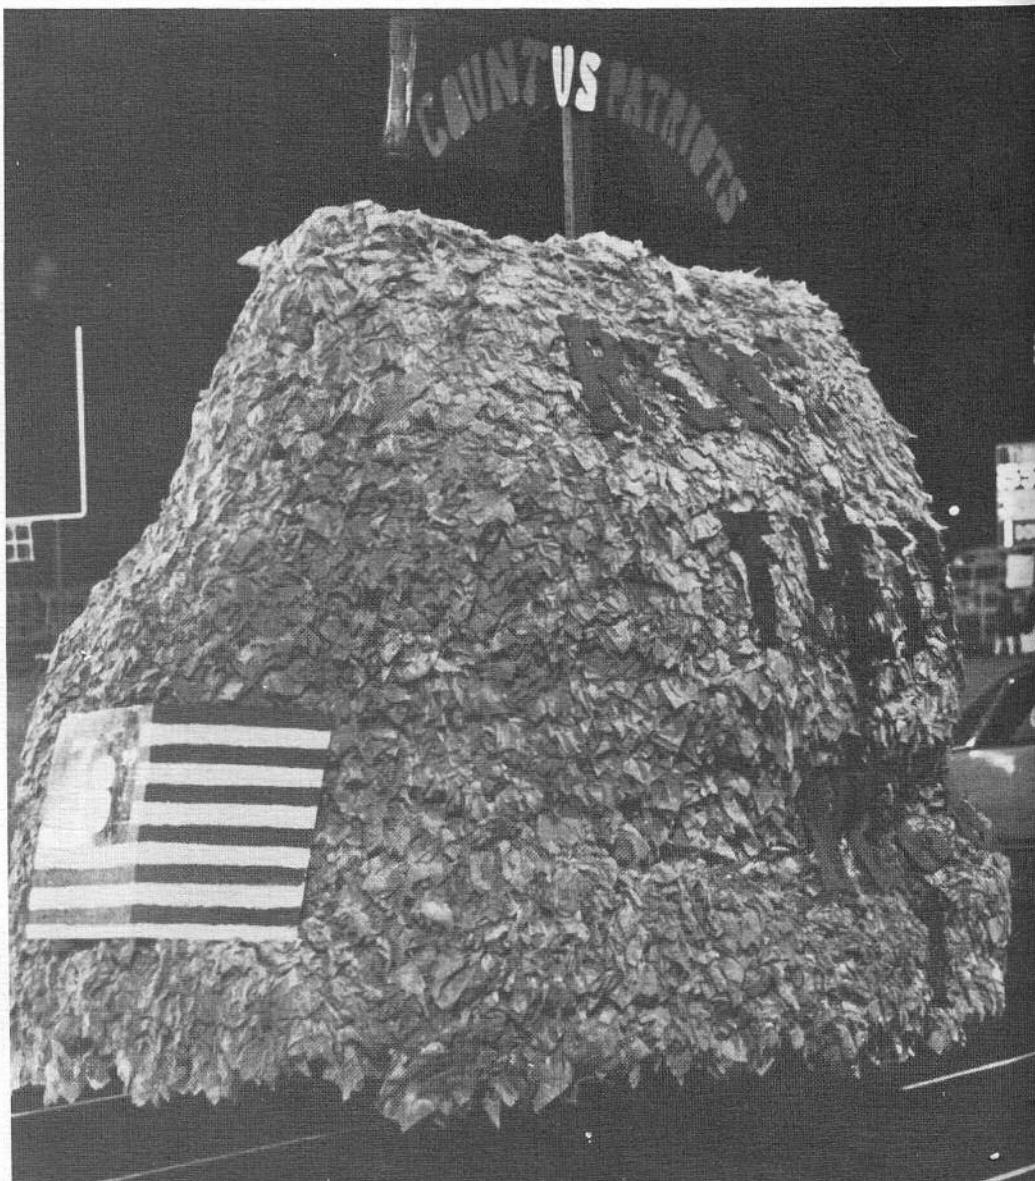

Clubs, athletics, and phase electives as well as required classes awaited them. Too much homework, and too little extra time agonized the second year class.

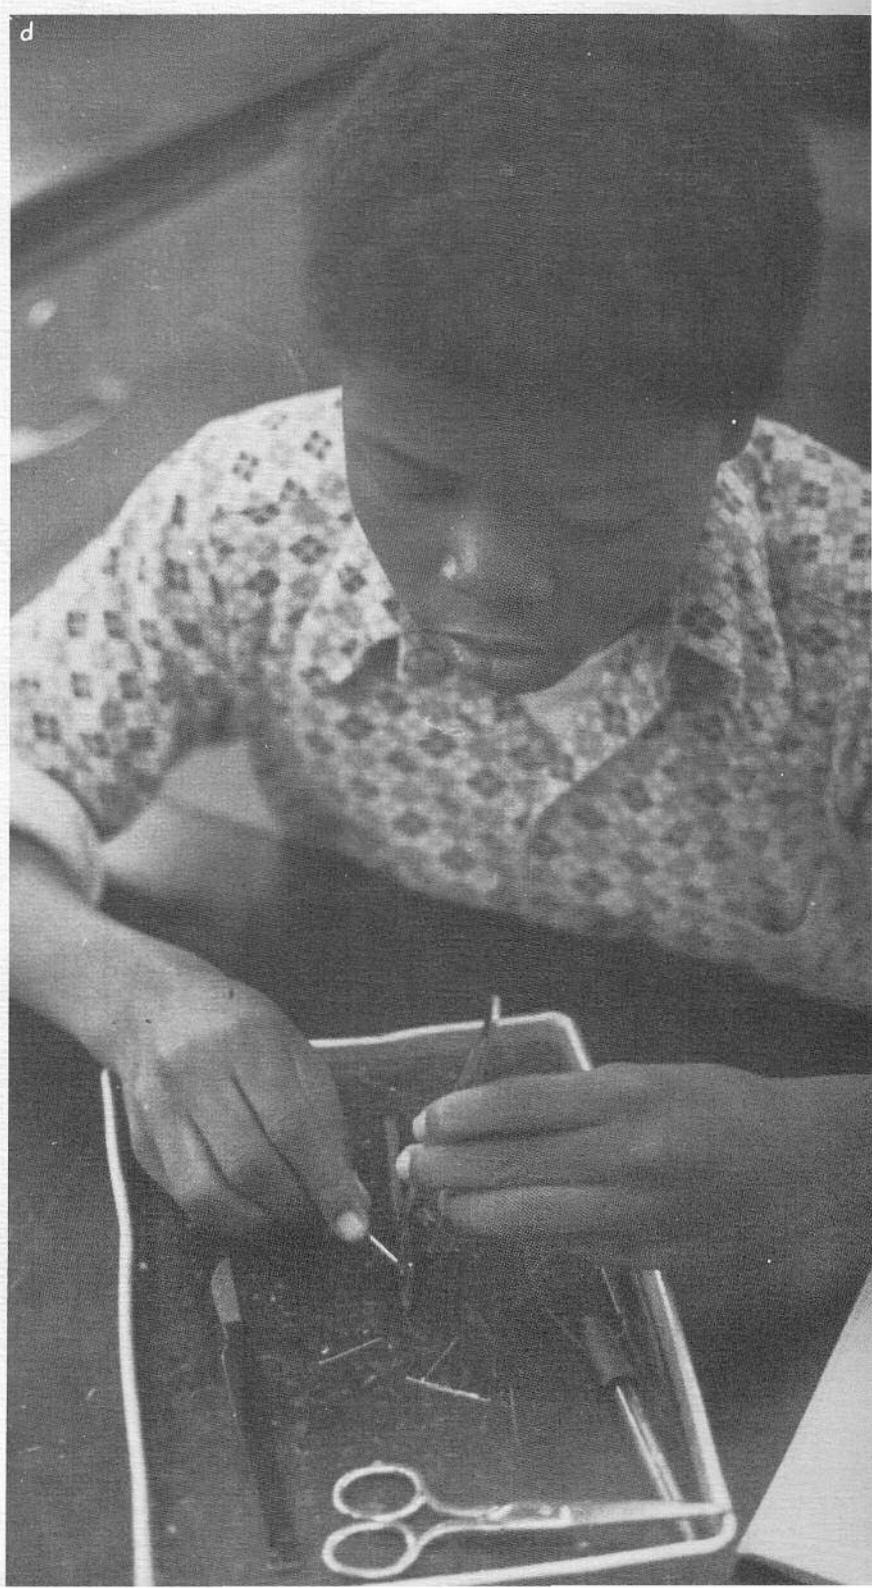

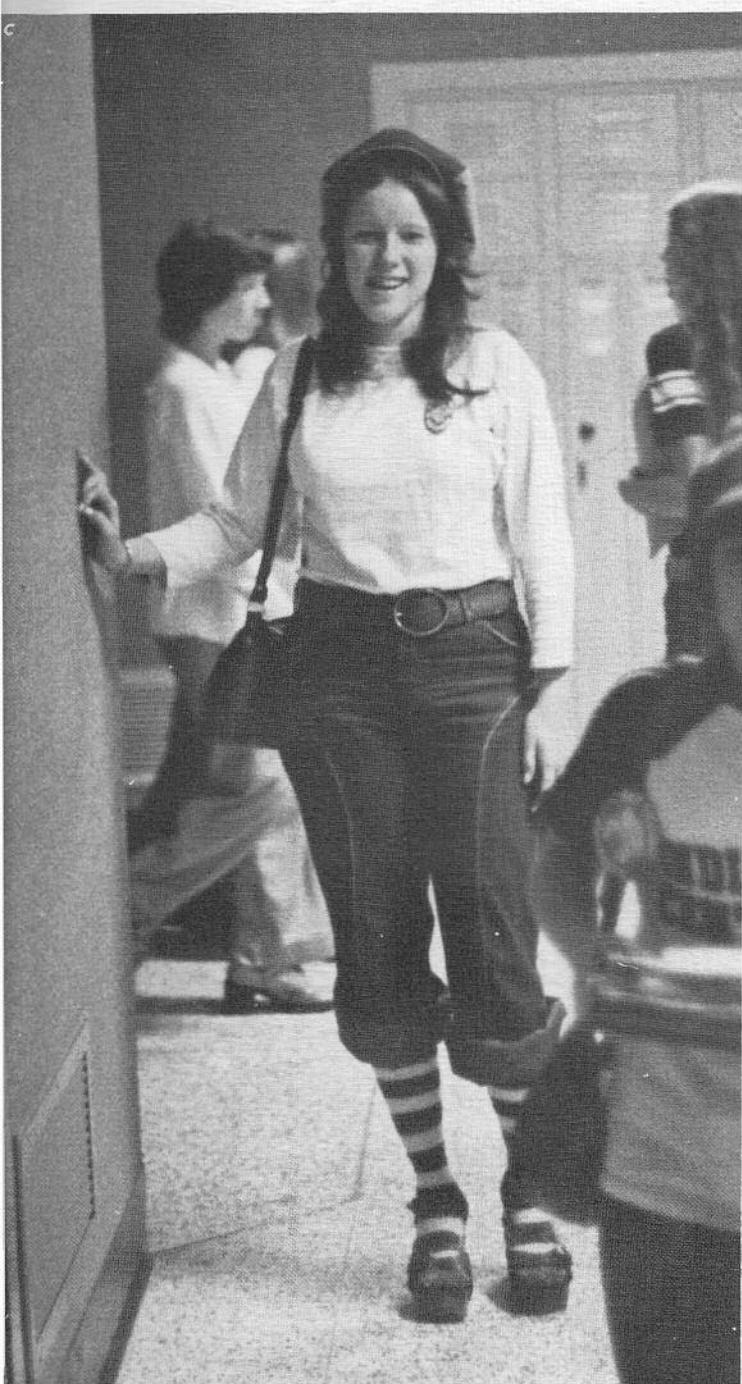

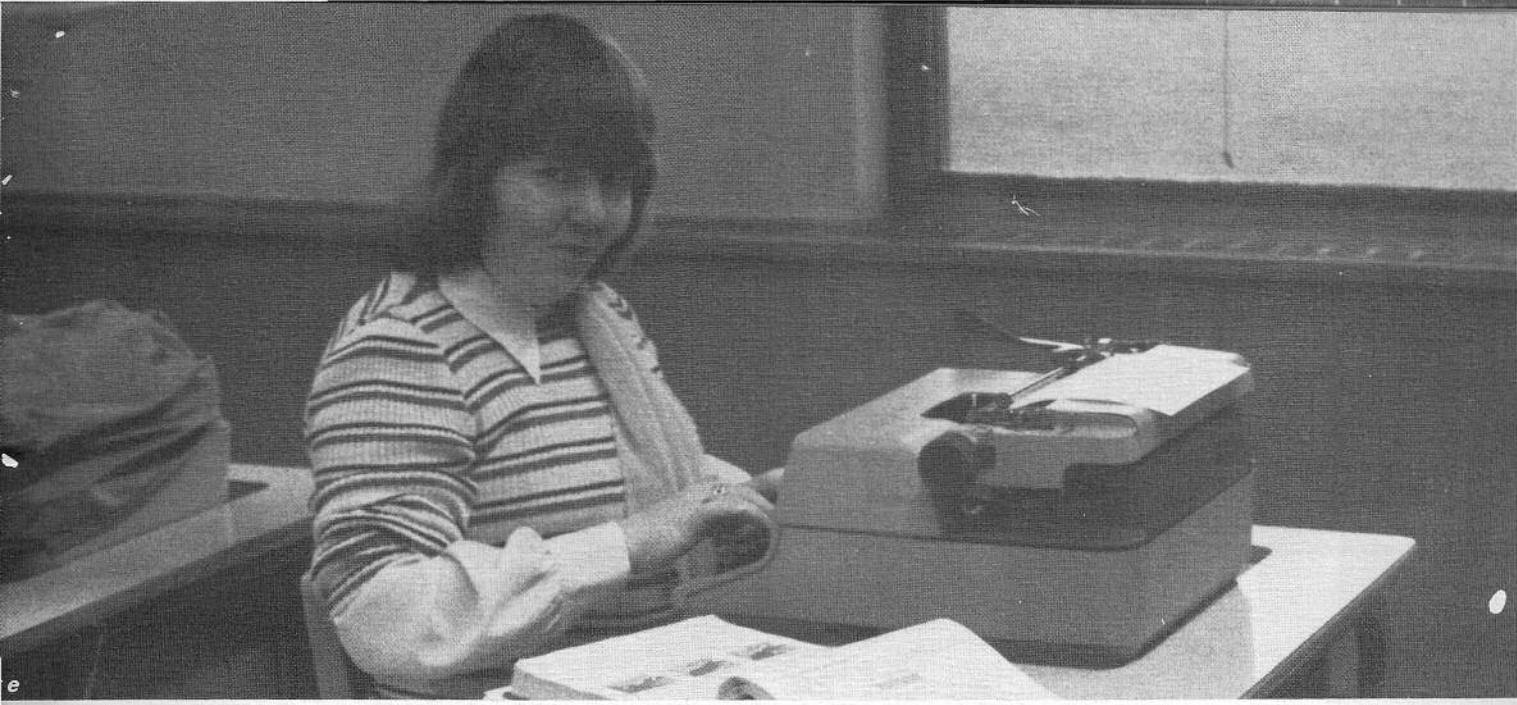

Endurance was the main biology requirement-picking up bugs to mount in the fall and trekking in the woods to find a pilated woodpecker kept their year a busy one.

With the help of Stephanie Thorne and Karen Paxson, the sophomore float "Ring Their Necks" rode high on the evening of Homecoming 1975.

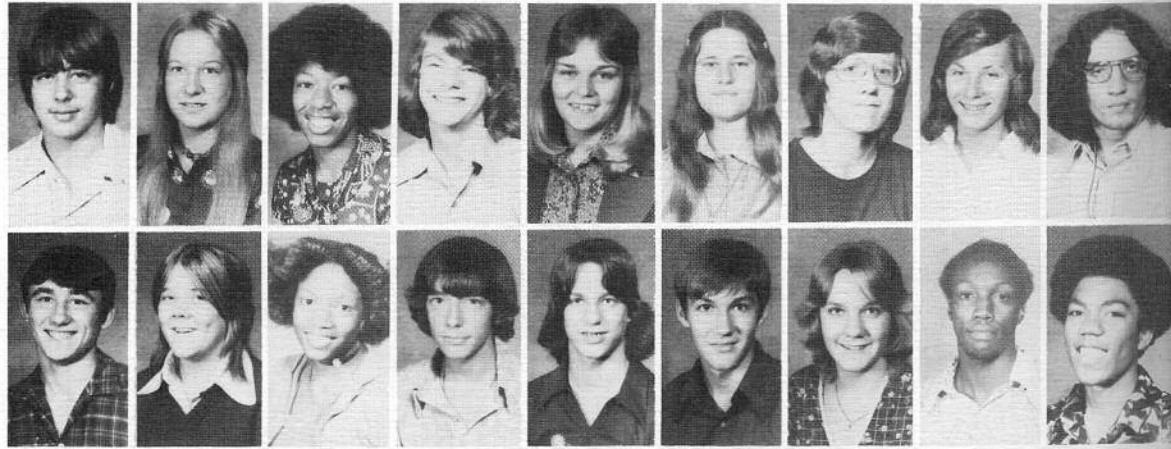

The long task of job hunting grew to be a persistent problem, yet not being a freshman gave them an extra boost.

a. During spirit week creativity was displayed by many sophomores in different activities. Here, Kim Faulkner is showing enthusiasm for her school. b. This year sophomores displayed patriotism by being counted Patriots and building their float "Ring Their Necks." c. Sophomore Robin Cooley is participating in one of the many activities of spirit week, "Cap, Sock and Jersey Day." d. Curtis Howard demonstrates his ability in the dissection of the Earth worm, a major requirement for Biology. e. Many sophomores take typing. Here, Candy Emperly is learning the first steps in typing.

Frosh Win Homecoming Contest

After we started our first year of high school, with the feeling of being lost and confused, our spirits were boosted as we placed first in the homecoming float contest.

Orientation classes, required for all freshmen, helped improve our reading skills, meet graduation requirements and helped us decide our occupation. Other required classes for freshmen are English, math, and phys ed. Besides the required classes, we chose classes such as world history, craft art and general business.

We were active in sports and clubs, as well as participating in spirit week by painting signs, buying buttons and wearing caps and jerseys.

a. Gary Davis stares at the board as he listens to the teacher describing the fundamentals of Algebra I. b. Freshman cheerleader, Monic Waters, stops momentarily to watch her team play. c. Fingers wrapped around his face mask, lineman Jim Burnell rests a moment during the game and concentrates what his next move will be when he returns to the line. d. "We've got the Power" was the name of the winning float built by freshmen. Ray Shepard proudly rides the float portraying Benjamin Franklin. e. Kim Couse is working on one of her daily assignments in English I.
